Is It Worth It? Walrus and Carpenter Seek the Man Wanted—More Money

By Arthur Brisbane

RICHARD B. SHERIDAN was one of the most brilliant young men at West Point. He "made" the Army football team in spite of his youth and light weight, played in the Yale-Army game last Saturday, broke his spinal column and died shortly after his mother reached his bedside yesterday.

Are all the football games, the college glory, the gate receipts worth that life?

It is for fathers and mothers and school authorities to answer that.

The walrus and the carpenter invited the little oysters to "A pleasant walk, a pleasant talk along the briny beach." They had it, and of those little oysters only the shells were left when the walk ended.

President Hoover and Premier Laval have had their pleasant walk and pleasant talk.

From London and Berlin comes information that those two nationalities, observing the Hoover-Laval pleasant walk and pleasant talk, feel that they, Britain and Germany, have played the part of the little oysters.

Germans expect nothing but trouble, they are used to it.

But the British are hurt. They feel that their "prestige in Europe has suffered." Only a little while ago they were financing France in the war.

In California, a woman confesses that she killed two other women and packed their bodies in trunks. You are not surprised to hear of a "man" in the case. "Seek the man" in crimes of violence committed by women.

It was known long before Kipling that a woman enraged is more dangerous than a man, and known long before the Duchesse De Boillon plotted the destruction of the beautiful actress, Adrienne Lecouvreur. The duchesse thought that with Adrienne gone, the handsome Maurice De Saxe would love her. As a matter of fact, he didn't particularly love either of them at that time.

The Western crime is horrible; but to execute the woman would be more horrible. Every doctor knows that if such a crime were committed deliberately, the woman was insane at the time.

Those recently selling silver metal short on the metal exchange are again advised to get out of that "position." They should read what Mr. Rene Leon had to say about silver yesterday in Cyrus H. K. Curtis's newspapers.

"Ninety per cent of the world's population is off the gold standard and functioning on highly fluctuating currencies.

"Repudiation is the order of the day, as evidenced by abundance of moratoria, and suspension of gold payments by a majority of nations."

Rene Leon suggests "legislation making possible the discharge of allied debts contracted in gold, by payment, part in gold and part in silver at some reasonable ratio. This procedure would immediately remove all danger of paper credit inflation and put an end to gold hoarding."

Who wants information from a real authority might write to Ludwig Vogelstein of the American Metal Co., 61 Broadway, N. Y. city. They also, as Mr. Vogelstein says, "should read the pamphlet on silver by Mr. Brownell, president of the American Smelting and Refining Co."

If you have any silver, keep it. It is coming back as money, not at 14 to 1, but at about $1 an ounce. Make a note of this prediction.

Western civilization may be saved by "buts" and "ifs." India could easily get rid of British power IF Mohammedans and Hindus could agree, and give up the pleasure of killing each other. BUT they can't agree and they won't give up that pleasure.

China might beat Japan IF North and South China could agree. BUT they can't agree.

Premier Laval presented himself at sunset at the tomb of the late President Wilson in the Cathedral at Washington and placed a wreath of autumn leaves on the tomb. It is the tomb of a President who did something that will never be done again by any President.

He sent ten thousand million American dollars and three million American soldiers to Europe to attend to a war three thousand miles away that we did not start.

WOMAN BURNED LOVE RECORDS

Barnstable, Oct. 27—Miss Lydia Brimmer, 50, testified today under cross-examination that she kept shorthand notes of the "dates" she had with James H. Connolly, 67-year-old Hyannis millionaire, whom she is suing for $300,000 heart balm.

"But I burned them all," she said, when her questioner, Atty. Thomas C. O'Brien of Boston, demanded to see them.

Shortly before the cross-examination began, she broke down and cried while completing her story of her romance, which ended with a good-night kiss and an unkept "date" on the morrow.

"I was under a doctor's care for some time afterwards," she said. "The doctor had to prescribe a sleeping potion for me."

BUSINESS IN PET SONG

The courtroom crowd, which leaned forward eagerly as the cross-examination began, broke into laughter when Attorney O'Brien forced the Chatham woman to repeat the words of a ditty she sang to the aged swain on one of their auto rides.

The song had to do with automobiles and ended with the line that the car he sold at his place in Hyannis was the best of all.

"I was singing because I was so happy," she explained. "Henry liked it so well he asked me to sing it four times."

When she was asked to state the place of her birth she said it was in or near Charlottetown, Can.

She was then asked if she had not once stated she was born on a ship at sea.

BOY 'HERO,' 14, TRAPPED, ADMITS LIE

Piled Ties on B. & A. Tracks and Then Gave Alarm to Save Train, Win Praise

Confessing that he was reenacting a scene from a movie, with himself in the hero role, Edward Hogan, Jr., 14, of Brooks st., Brighton, son of a veteran trainman, today admitted to police that his thrilling story of baffling train wreckers on the Boston & Albany railroad last night was a complete hoax.

The boy, for a few hours lauded to his romantic heart's desire as the one who saved scores of lives through his promptitude and bravery in removing several ties from the tracks near the Faneuil station just in front of the Western Express, broke down under a detective's questioning and told how he himself had placed the obstruction there.

ONLY A HERO, NO WRECKER

Referring to his earlier graphic account of how he had toiled alone to drag away the barrier, how he had placed a red lantern on the spot when his strength failed him, how he had suffered an attack by "bandits," one with "a big mustache and a sombrero, the lad tearfully confessed:

"It was all made up. I put one tie on the track, but I knew there wouldn't be any train wreck.

"I live right alongside the tracks, and because my father works for the railroad I know the schedule of all the trains by heart.

"Yesterday afternoon I was thinking of a show called 'The Wreck'—I think that was the name of it—that I saw two or three months ago.

"There was a part in it about

Congress Should Quash Hoover's Un-American Moratorium Policy

PRESIDENT HOOVER in his joint statement with Premier Laval of France has declared that we should leave the matter of the extension of the moratorium on debt payments to a longer period than he originally proposed to the foreign powers interested in such postponement.

Yet in this very utterance he is taking the initiative himself by asserting that such a postponement of payment "MAY BE NECESSARY COVERING THE PERIOD OF BUSINESS DEPRESSION."

What does the term, "covering the period of business depression," mean?

Covering the period of WHAT business depression, and where?

The period of depression in this country is practically ended. Already the movement of recovery is well under way.

Pacific Coast industries are picking up. New England factories are running full time, and in some cases overtime, especially in the boot and shoe and textile industries.

Money is coming out of hoarding.

Agriculture is on a better basis. Wheat is strengthening. Unemployment is lessening.

We are not out of our depression, but we are on the way to get out soon, and CERTAINLY WITHIN THE COMING YEAR.

STILL, this does not mean that Europe is going to get out of HER depression—that the pound is going back to par, that the burdens of the Versailles treaty placed upon Germany are going to be lifted, or that the troubles of Europe due to old-fashioned busness methods and to extravagant government expenditure for armaments and to military subsidies and war indemnities, are going to be materially altered FOR YEARS.

Are we going to extend the moratorium until

Three sticks of dynamite, a fuse and a coil box, found today at the rear of the Dorchester Theater, Fields Corner, were placed there to intimidate the theater proprietor, E. M. Loew, police say they believed today.

Loew told police that for several months he had been having trouble with certain types of employes at this theater and another in Worcester, where, a few months ago an explosion occurred. In the Dorchester theater itself, several ill-smelling bombs have been thrown, he said.

CADETS TO PLAY OUT FOOTBALL SCHEDULE

Body of West Point Grid Victim Is Back "Home": Funeral to Be Tomorrow

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 27—Major General William R. Smith, commandant of the military academy, today announced the Army football team would play out its schedule for this year despite the death of Cadet Richard B. Sheridan, Jr., as a result of injuries received in the game with Yale Saturday.

General Smith said this action was taken on the expressed desire of the football team, the Corps of Cadets and Cadet Sheridan's immediate family.

"In answer to the many inquiries from various sources," said a formal statement, "the superintendent of the United States Military Academy desires to announce that despite the death of Cadet Sheridan from injuries received in the football game with Yale Saturday, the football schedule for this season will not be abandoned but the remaining games will be played."

FIVE GAMES ON LIST

Five games remain on the Army's schedule for 1931, in addition to the game with Colorado College at West Point this Saturday. They are Louisiana State at West Point Nov. 7, Pittsburgh at Pittsburgh Nov. 14, Ursinus at West Point Nov. 21, Notre Dame at New York Nov. 27 and Navy at New York Dec. 12.

The last named game will be played for charity.

In deciding to play the schedule out the Army goes contrary to a precedent set 22 years ago when Cadet Eugene Byrne, of Buffalo, was killed in a football game with Harvard. The remainder of that year's schedule was cancelled.

The Cadets played only at West Point in those days, however, and the cancelling of the remaining games upset no such commitments as are involved at the present time.

WILL REST WITH HEROES

Just before this announcement was made, Cadet Sheridan came back to West Point today to find a burial resting place with some of

HOOVER-LAVAL PACT POINTS TO ROAR IN CONGRESS

SECRET DEAL ON WAR DEBT CUT IS HINTED

Public Would "Burn Up" if Told the Whole Truth, One Senator Says

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Correspondent

Washington, Oct. 27 (INS)—There were unmistakable signs today of an uproar in Congress over the Hoover-Laval agreement for a re-examination of reparations and war debts, with a view of scaling them downward.

While the existence of this agreement was not reported in the vague communique issued at the conclusion of M. Laval's visit, it was, nevertheless, confirmed by one of the highest officials of the administration. And as knowledge of it spread in senatorial circles today incredulity gave way to resentment in many cases.

A number of Senators, both Republican and Democratic, expressed the view that another scaling down of war debts means eventual cancellation.

GERMANY LEFT FLOUNDERING

And cancellation, too, they said, without Germany being relieved of theh unconditional part of her the unconditional part of her without the disarmament in Europe which this country desires, and without revision of the Versailles treaty, which Senator Borah and others contend is necessary to the peace of Europe.

European indebtedness to the United States was scaled down by half in the debt agreements now in force, it was pointed out. The face value of the debts in 1921 was approximately $12,000,000,000.

The debt funding agreements which allowed Great Britain to settle for 70 cents on the dollar, France 39 cents, and Italy 19, cut down the face value to about $5,500,000,000.

These agreements bear interest rates ranging from 3.3 in the case of Great Britain to 0.4 in the case of Italy.

"PAY WHAT YOU CAN"

The Hoover-Laval agreement will undertake to re-examine these agreements on the basis of "capacity to pay."

A Republican senator, who would not permit his name to be used, declared that "if the American people were fully informed of the Hoover-Laval conference they would burn up."

An explanation will be demanded in Congress, it was said, as to the reasons for the administration abandoning the old thesis laid down by then Secretary of State, now Chief Justice Charles E. Hughes that there is no relationship between German reparations and the debts the Allies owe the United States.

This thesis was firmly supported by both the Harding and Coolidge administrations. It has now been abandoned by the "understanding" reached between President Hoover and Premier Laval.

VICTORY FOR LAVAL

The more the results of the Hoover-Laval conference were studied today in senatorial circles the less they were liked.

In many quarters it was stated that Premier Laval had scored "a complete diplomatic triumph."

President Hoover's farewell message to M. Laval was dispatched to him today aboard the Ile de France. Reads:

"On behalf of the American people, I bid you bon voyage on your return to France from this memorable visit to the United States. It has afforded me much pleasure to welcome you among us and I personally appreciate the cordial contacts resulting from our conversations."

Harbor Police to Paint Their Boat

Boston policemen attached to the harbor division will paint their boat, the Watchman, it was revealed today. According to Capt. Ross K. Perry, harbormaster, that's just one of the many jobs that his efficient force has to do.

"Is this right, that the men of your division are going to paint the boat?" he was asked.

"Why, sure," he said. "The harbor police have been painting their own boats for 40 years, even if people don't seem to know it."

TRUNK SLAYER GOING BACK TO FACE TRIAL

Mrs. Judd Won't Fight Extradition; Husband Is Held on License Charge

Los Angeles, Oct. 27—With his wife scheduled to return to Arizona tomorrow for trial in connection with the killing of two women, Dr. W. C. Judd today faced the possibility of being forced to remain behind bars in this city.

A warrant was issued for the arrest of Dr. Judd last night on a charge of practicing medicine without a license.

DIRECTED HOSPITAL

Dr. Judd recently was in charge of a sanitarium during the absence of the director. An investigation disclosed he did not have a medical license, although he holds licenses in Oregon and Arizona.

Bail was set at $500. The minimum sentence is $100 fine or 60 days in jail, or both.

Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd, his wife, confessed slayer of her two closest friends, is expeced to start for Phoenix tomorrow night.

The decision to yield to Arizona authorities and agree to extradition was made at a conference between Atty. Charles Craddick, County Atty. Lloyd J. Andrews and Sheriff J. R. McFadden of Phoenix.

McFadden left last night to obtain Governor Rolph's signature on the extradition papers and said he would return here tomorrow morning.

With the way prepared for the immediate return of Mrs. Judd to stand trial for the murder of Hedvig Samuelson and Agnes Le Roi, it is expected that application will be made for a dismissal of the writ of habeas corpus, issued shortly after Mrs. Judd was arrested last Friday.

ATTORNEYS SPLIT

Outstanding events of the case yesterday were the sudden break between attorneys formerly associated in the defense of Mrs. Judd, and the woman's arraignment on a fugitive warrant from Arizona. Announcement by Richard Cantillon that he would not oppose extradition of Mrs. Judd led to the break.

The Arizona desert yielded today what may be evidence in the murder when investigators found a blood-stained mattress two miles northwest of Phoenix and partially identified it as one from the cottage where the women were killed.

The mattress was found 50 yards off a lonely road. It was tightly rolled and tied with twine. Inside were parts of two sheets also bearing red stains.

The officer volunteered when the mother said both she and her husband were so weak from illness that they feared their blood would not be accepted.

McPhee, who had delivered the message from the hospital that a blood transfusion would be necessary, immediately offered his blood. The blood of the father tested to standard, however, and a first transfusion was effected last night.

PICKETS STONE CAR OF STRIKE BREAKERS

Lawrence Mills Are Shipping Looms Out of Town and Threaten to Liquidate

Lawrence, Oct. 27—Pickets laid down a barrage of stones on a car containing strikebreakers today as it sped to the eastern gate of the Pacific Print Works.

The car was badly damaged by flying missiles but the occupants, abandoning the machine, outfooted their pursuers in the race for the gate.

Another attack was reported in Lowell, where Frank McNulty, 37, of Market st., Lawrence, a striker, was held as one of five men who stoned the home there of Thomas Thomas, a non-striking Lawrence mill worker.

HELD WITHOUT BAIL

The men drove up in an automobile last night and broke several windows in his home in Central st., Thomas said, before Patrolman Timothy Bagley broke up the attack and arrested McNulty. The prisoner was held without bail in Lowell district court today for a hearing November 5 on a charge of malicious damage to property.

DEPORTATION HINTED

Judge Frederic N. Chandler directed that immigration authorities be asked to check Capuani's claim that he is a naturalized citizen.

Meantime other mills affected by the strike were planning to follow the move of the American Woolen Co., in packing machinery for shipment to closed mills in other cities.

Today in Cook County jail Capone awaited a ruling on his request to be free on bond while his income tax conviction is appealed to the higher courts.

Congress Should Quash Hoover's Un-American Moratorium Policy

Europe is out of her depression, which means year after year indefinitely?

That is what begging, debt-dodging European nations hope for, but it is certainly not what any loyal American statesman ought to propose.

As a matter of fact the moratorium ought never to have been proposed at all.

The very mention of the word revived all the hopes of European powers for debt reduction and for eventual debt cancellation.

The opportunity to institute a period of non-payment meant to them the opportunity TO CONTINUE ON A NON-PAYMENT BASIS UNTIL DEBT CANCELLATION WAS A MATTER OF GENERALLY ACCEPTED FACT.

THE only thing the Congress of the United States can do to overcome the evil of President Hoover's fatuous proposal is to vote against an actual debt postponement of any kind.

This country has granted debt reduction to the limit of generosity, in fact to the limit of sanity, and to grant anything more in that line is not a noble and generous gesture—it is merely an exhibition of pitiful weakness and folly.

It is even more than that. It is an evidence of lack of patriotism evidenced in lack of consideration for the welfare of our own country and of our own people who will have to pay all the thousands of millions of dollars which these debt-dodging European nations will evade.

If the American Congress does its American duty, it will quash at the outset Mr. Hoover's un-American moratorium policy.

Colgate Boys Urged to Prefer "Dull Debutantes"

Hamilton, N. Y., Oct. 27—The "dull debutante" is far preferable to the "peppy party girl," Dr. Donald L. Laird, psychologist, told Colgate students in his classes yesterday.

Dr. Laird

"The vivacious personality type," he said, "is associated with unusual activity of the thyroid gland, and in five or ten years after the house party there are good chances that this gland, after excessive functioning, may become disordered, whereon the formerly vivacious house-party companion may be changed into an entirely different type that is sluggish, slow and uninteresting."

AUTOPSY AT NASHUA TO SOLVE MYSTERY IN WOMAN'S DEATH

HERO ROLE PROVES HOAX

Edward Hogan, Jr., 14, of Brighton, confessed to police today that his great train wreck heroism was all the bunk—that he placed the ties on the B. & A. tracks. He admitted he had seen a movie with a boy as the wreck hero, and that he had merely played the hero role. (Staff photo.)

COURT TO MAKE 'A MAN OF HIM'

New Haven, Ct., Oct. 27 (INS)—The fellow who tried to make the leopard change his spots or to teach an old dog new tricks had what is commonly known as a cinch compared with the job Probation Officer Martin F. Gesler and welfare officials began herqe today.

Elizabeth Berg, 58, of Montclair, N. J., has worn women's clothing for 51 years and today the court gave Gesler the job of getting Elizabeth to adopt masculine attire.

Even though Elizabeth Bereg is a man he does not react any too kindly to Gesler's or the court's suggestion. Elizabeth, following his arrest when he applied for a job as a domestic, told police he had worn women's clothes since he was six, and that he could never get work as a pastry cook if people knew he was a man.

He was a masseuse in a New Jersey girl's school for several years, he said.

Probation authorities will try to show Berg he can get work just as well if he dresses like the man he is.

EDISON GRAVE UNDER GUARD

West Orange, N. J., Oct. 27 (INS)—An unceasing vigil is being kept "for an indefinite period" by West Orange police over the grave of Thomas A. Edison in Rosedale Cemetery against any possible attempts by ghouls to steal his body or the $15,000 bronze casket in which it rests.

The guard was instituted immediately after his body was laid in the grave, October 21, when six soldiers, working in eight-hour shifts, stood guard until sundown the following night. The regular army men were then relieved by the police.

While officials were silent about the guard it was learned from an authoritative source that they feared rifling of the grave for the bronze coffin or the brain of the dead man.

Edison's brain, it is conceded, is of tremendous interest to scientists who, it was said, would pay a great price for a chance to dissect it.

FILIPINOS TOLD AGAIN TO WAIT

Washington, Oct. 27 (AP)—President Hoover said today that immediate independence for the Philippines without assured economic stability would lead to disaster in the islands.

The President said the government must be assured of stability before independence could be granted. The matter was discussed at a cabinet meeting today, but no conclusions as to policy had been reached.

Those favoring independence in Congress are going ahead with plans to press that issue at every chance. The strength of that sentiment is not minimized at the White House.

24 SAVED WHEN STEAMER SINKS

New York, Oct. 27 (AP)—The sound freighter City of Stamford was sunk off Welfare Island this morning in collision with a scow.

The crew of 24 were taken off by river craft.

The City of Stamford is a wooden freight steamboat of 420 tons register, built in 1907 at Kennebunkport, Me.

First to reach the sinking freighter was a city fireboat, the crew of which said the freighter had a large hole in the hull.

The City of Stamford quickly settle, but the water at that point is shallow and it rested on bottom with the upper part of the boat still showing. It was believed salvage would be simple.

Daniel J. Shea, counsel for Breen, filed a motion for abatement of evidence and a hearing will be given later by Judge James A. Lowell.

The indictment charges that Breen and other men molested Walter E. Sullivan as he left a Berkeley st. drug store last June and that a bottle fell and was broken, destroying liquor evidence against the proprietor.

2 STATES PROBE WIFE'S DEATH IN A CAMP

Her Estranged Husband, Suspicious of Fatality, Asks for Nashua Autopsy

Nashua, N. H., Oct. 27—With officials of two states participating, investigation of the mysterious death of Mrs. Esther Titus, 22, of this city, at a Merrimac, Mass., summer camp, shifted here today for an autopsy.

At the request of her estranged husband, Harold A. Titus of Providence, R. I., Dr. Charles Duncan, state pathologist, announced he would conduct an autopsy, assisted by Dr. Francis W. Anthony, medical examiner of Essex County Massachusetts.

DETECTIVE IN PROBE

Titus arrived yesterday, demanding an investigation on the ground that his wife's death, reported as from pneumonia, was shrouded in mystery.

Dr. Duncan said the autopsy would be performed in the Davis Funeral Home on the arrival of Dr. Anthony. The latter was reported bound for Nashua with State Detective Richard Griffin of Massachusetts, who has been conducting the investigation at Merrimac.

In the meantime the body of Mrs. Titus, who died Saturday, was at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bullard, East Pearl st. They had planned the funeral for this afternoon.

Mrs. Bullard told police yesterday she was satisfied her daughter died of pneumonia, and that she and her husband desired no investigation. It was considered probable that the autopsy, if performed, would cause a postponement of the funeral.

HUSBAND IS SUSPICIOUS

Titus, estranged from his wife nearly a year, went to Merrimac immediately after learning of her death, and at his request Detective Griffin was assigned to the case. The husband then came to Nashua.

Mrs. Titus died at a camp at Lake Attitash. The attending physician declared death was due to pneumonia and the body was turned over to a Lawrence undertaker.

Titus declared he had been informed of the death by a telegram signed "Mother," but that a check-up revealed the message was telephoned to the telegraph office by a man.

Cyprus Insurgents Burn Customs Sheds

London, Oct. 27 (AP)—The governor of Cyprus reported to the colonial office today that in new disorders in the village of Pissouri the customs sheds were burned.

SHE LOVED, BOUGHT PAJAMAS FOR 'HENRY' AND SUED HIM

Miss Lydia Brimmer, 50, who is seeking $300,000 heart balm from James H. Connolly, millionaire auto dealer, asserting that he left her "waiting at the church." She told in Barnstable court that "Henry" (she called him) gave her $1000 for a trousseau, and that in buying it she put in a pair of pajamas for him.

Here is James H. Connolly, the man who, Miss Brimmer says, jilted her after ardently wooing her. It was rapid, it was speedy and so was the parting, she told the court at Barnstable.

DRUG 'QUEEN' TRAP BARED

A story of how Mrs. Rebecca "Becky" Silverman of Revere, alleged "Queen of the Drug Traffic," was trapped into accepting a marked $100 bill for two ounces of morphine, was told in federal court today in her trial on narcotic charges.

After Asst. U. S. Atty. Elihu D. Stone had charged Mrs. Silverman was "the source of supply" for the "dope" ring of Boston and vicinity, witnesses described her capture in a West Cedar st. doorway on Sept. 18.

Mrs. Silverman, mother of two grown boys, is charged with distributing and selling habit-forming drugs, and he arrest was said by officials to climax 10 years of violations.

A jury was quickly drawn and the courtroom was crowded when Narcotic Agent John O'Malley was called as the first witness. He testified to seeing Mrs. Silverman park her car in West Cedar st., and cross the street with a package under her arm.

O'Malley said he was standing in a doorway, from which point he witnessed a meeting in another doorway of Mrs. Silverman and a narcotic bureau emissary, and saw the alleged transaction. He said the emissary, when accosted by another agent, dropped to the street a bag taken from Mrs. Silverman containing two cans of morphine. The witness testified the marked bill was found in her pocketbook. Agent R. W. Artis corroborated his testimony.

Cop Refuses to Aid and Wins Rebuke

Found guilty of failing to cooperate with a brother officer in obtaining evidence, Patrolman Daniel F. Sherry of Lynn was punished by a reprimand from Police Chief James H. Broad today.

Patrolman Sherry faced complaint of Patrolman Arthur MacDonald, who charged Sherry had refused Friday to assist him in obtaining important evidence against Leon Mercier, an alleged drunken driver. The charge was an aftermath of the arrest of Mercier, Walter Smith and Miss Helen Moran on drunkenness charges. Miss Moran attempted to end her life in a cell after her arrest.

BABY, SICK MAN SAVED IN FIRE

A two-months-old infant who showed no embarrassment although snatched from his bath, and a man confined to a sick bed, were rescued today during a fire on the fourth floor of the six-family apartment house at 1012 Washington st., Lynn.

Firemen carried to safety Victor Anderson, the sick man, after a battle in the street to prevent his wife from entering the blazing building.

Mrs. Emily Saltzman, occupant on the fourth floor, was bathing her baby when flames broke through the ceiling. Snatching up her baby, she wrapped him in blankets and fled to the street.

When firemen arrived, she told them Anderson was sick in bed—and just then Mrs. Anderson arrived after a shopping trip downtown.

Screaming that her husband would die, Mrs. Anderson rushed for the entrance but was caught by firemen, who gave her into the hands of a policeman for restraint.

The firemen groped to the fourth floor, lifted Anderson from the bed and made their way to the street.

JAZZ GERM HAS MORE FUN THAN A THYROID

"Dull Deb" Choice for a Wife Too Silly; Besides, They Do Not Make That Model

"Peppy girls" of Boston University rallied round today with impatiently stamping pumps, and put the finger of scorn on a gentleman named Dr. Donald A. Laird, Colgate University psychology expert.

It seems this gentleman is adding out of a slightly damp viewpoint, according to these impatient gals, in declare to Colgate students that boys should pick the "dull debutante" in preference to the "peppy party girl" for a wife.

Something to do with the breaking up of the old thyroid gland after a hard winter, Dr. Laird intimated.

GLANDS? WHY WORRY!

"Oh, my," said Betty Manker of Cambridge, an impatient miss of the School of Business Administration at Boston University. "Oh, my. Another college professor has got himself in the papers at the expense of us poor girls.

"Well, I don't know what age Prof. Laird lived and played in, but he ought to wake up.

"In the first place, in this present age. I am sure he will find few dull debutantes, and I doubt if he would find any girl who even thinks of her thyroid gland, much less worries about whether her being peppy will wear her thyroid gland out and make her a slow and uninteresting wife."

Ruth Bernard of Natick, also of the School of Business Administration, spoke a similar "fie" on Prof. Laird.

SECRECY HELPS SOME

"I never paid any attention to my thyroid gland," said Ruthie. "All I know is that I'm glad there are party girls and party girls.

"All girls have their fling, the dull debutante perhaps within the cloistered shelter of her dad's estates. I'll take a chance on my being compatible in later life.

"I'm sure that all the so-called party girls, after they have had their good times, are satisfied to settle down, and I'm sure they make as good wives as any debutantes."

Rose Kane of Revere and Anna Sullivan of Roxbury echoed the sentiments of their B. U. sisters, but Prof. Guillermo Hall, professor of psychology at Boston University, added to them.

JAZZ FOR THE HUNGRY

"The result of my long experience with the younger people," he said, "convinces me that the dull debutante is a girl who has not been essentially awakened. The poor thing is starved on the side of affection.

"All you have to do with the so-called peppy party girl is wear her down and she will settle back into her shell.

"The difference between the dull debutante and the peppy party girl is this: You take flour and water and mix them, and what have you? You have dead dough. But put yeast in it and you have bread—something worth while.

"The fact that Prof. Laird finds that the debutantes are the best wives may lie within his own limitations."

Dumbbells Best Wives? Not if You Pick From This Group

ROSE KANE BETTY MANKER ANNA SULLIVAN RUTH BERNARD

JUST IMAGINE A MAN SAYING A THING LIKE THAT

Prof. Laird of Colgage having spoken his piece about the "dull deb" being the best bet as a wife, B. U. girls have put him on the grill. "What if we live ones do burn out our thyroid glands, we'll still make good wives," says Betty Manker. Rose Kane and Anna Sullivan agreed. "We'll have our fling; they all do; even the dull ones have secret fun,"

PROF. HALL

MAYBE IT'S HIS OWN SET HE MEANS

Prof. Guillermo Hall of the university admits Prof. Laird seems to be astray in his ideas. Perhaps he is drawing his conclusions from the limitations of his own personal contact, added Mr. Hall. (Staff photos.)

TUFTS BOYS NOW FACE MUSIC

Judge Wilson continued the cases of the 18 Tufts freshmen today in Concord court until Nov. 10 to give them time to make restitution for damage done to 300 feet of [illegible] bordering the state highway on Boxboro rd., Concord, during a fraternity escapade last Friday morning.

Patrolman Reagan of the Concord State police barracks, told Judge Wilson that State engineers had not yet appraised the damage.

Judge Wilson declared that when the case came up again he wanted to know the attitude of the college authorities toward the escapade and whether restitution had been made.

When the students left court, they made restitution through their counsel, Atty. Arthur W. Coolidge, a Tuft's alumnus, for damage done to two roadside stands in Boxboro. The damage totaled approximately $100.

Communications to the fraternity house indicate that residents of the neighborhood, mostly farmers, will not be satisfied by allowing the students to make restitution.

PONZI IN ANGRY LETTER RAPS COL. GOODWIN

Standing by his claim that the $2,500,000 "unaccounted for" in his $10,000,000 estate can be traced to liquidation and not to any misapplication by him, Charles Ponzi today sent a caustic letter to Col. Robert E. Goodwin, referee in bankruptcy, from his cell in state prison.

Ponzi takes Col. Goodwin to task for criticising statements in his petition to Gov. Ely for commutation of his sentence.

Col. Goodwin announced he would oppose commutation of sentence.

Ponzi informed Col Goodwin: "In no instance have I accused either you or any trustees of inefficiency or dishonesty." He pointed out that "the total amount of my liabilities and the total amount of dividends paid my creditors show a discrepancy of about $2,500,000."

And he counters with the charge that "the total fees must have amounted to a 'little' million."

After rehearsing items enumerated in his plea, Ponzi wrote:

"I have said the discrepancy can be accounted for by the amounts paid in fees and charged to depreciation. If you take exception to that statement, all you have to do is refer to your records to find confirmation.

"It is a matter of common knowledge that receivers and trustees in bankruptcy are allowed by law compensation not exceeding 2 per cent of all money collected and disbursed. If my estate did collect in all about $1,000,000 and disbursed them, the 2 per cent on collections and the 2 per cent on disbursements amount to $160,000.

When asked for a statement relative to Ponzi's letter, Col. Goodwin said:

"I don't care to get into a controversy with this man. If Gov. Ely desires a report from me on the supervision of the Ponzi property I shall be happy to comply."

U. S. FIGHTS TO SEIZE ALL IN SPEAKEASIES

By WILLIAM S. NEAL

International News Service Correspondent.

Washington, Oct. 27 (INS)—The government today battled in the Supreme Court for the right to confiscate all personal property, as well as liquor, found in speakeasies.

The government appealed from a Circuit Court ruling that reversed one by a lower court, under which personal property found in an alleged saloon in Butte, Mont., was confiscated.

The law depended upon by the government was passed in 1864 and revised two years later. It specifies plainly that property found in a place where liquor is manufactured to evade payment of tax may be seized, and the government says it also applies to places where liquor is sold.

RED LEADER RUN OUT OF CITY

Council Bluffs, Ia., Oct. 27 (AP)—George Papcun, 29, Communist organizer in Council Bluffs, was taken 14 miles east of Council Bluffs by 12 unidentified men and ordered "to keep on going."

The seizure of Papcun followed his arrest on charges of disturbing the peace of a City Council meeting a short time before. Papcun had been rushed from the council chamber to the police station in an adjoining building and there booked.

He was released on bond and as he left the station was seized by the unidentified anti-Communist leaders.

Returning to the city after escorting Papcun on the first lap of his journey eastward, the men broke into the Communist headquarters and completely cleaned it out.

156TH BIRTHDAY OF U. S. NAVY CELEBRATED

Washington, Oct. 27 (AP)—The glories of the past and the hopes of the future are entwined today in the Navy's observance of its 156th anniversary.

In a world-wide movement, the limitation of its strength through a holiday on construction is under consideration. A slice of $60,000,000 from its next budget is before the administration.

But on the birthday of Theodore Roosevelt, an ardent exponent of its upbuilding, the Navy paused for its annual ceremony. Sea-faring routine from the decks of many ships in port and the service kept open house for the nation.

At Lakehurst, modernity was symbolized in the dedication of a new queen of the air—the giant airship Akron—by Secretary Adams.

From the rejuvenated decks of Old Ironsides, in Baltimore, Secretary Adams will recall tonight the magnificent traditions of America's men of the sea. With Governor Ritchie of Maryland and Rear Admiral William S. Benson, retired, he will have dinner aboard the ship, which itself may become a part of the navy's curtailment program.

In seeking, at the request of President Hoover, to decrease its 1933 budget, navy officials recommended the inactivity of Old Ironsides. The President, however, has indicated disagreement with the idea.

in or near Charlottetown," she said, and stuck to it.

ANOTHER MAN BOBS UP.

Questioned at great length about a man named Hayes, living in Centerville, Miss Brimmer admitted that he stayed at the house occupied by her mother and her at Chatham for a period which "might have been a year."

This was four years before she met Connolly, and she said she did not mention it to him.

A party at the Hotel Commander, Cambridge, attended by Connolly and herself and some of their friends at the time of their trip to Boston to buy wedding rings and trousseau, was also the subject of grilling.

GIN BRIDAL PARTY

"Did anybody in the party drink any liquor?" she was asked.

"Yes," she said. "Some home made gin was drunk in celebration of our coming marriage."

"How much?"

"I don't know, but I guess perhaps about a pint."

"A pint?"

"Well, it might have been a quart," she said.

"Did Mr. Connolly have some gin?"

"I don't know."

"Did he look unwell that day?"

"As well as he ever did."

"Did you tell him he did not look well and would not live long and had better make out his will right away?"

"I did not," answered Miss Brimmer.

SAID IT WITH A HUG.

The witness admitted that on her ride with Connolly to Provincetown there was no mention of marriage.

"But," she added, "he put his around me and said, 'I love you.'"

She said that when her admirer returned to see her after his proposal—three days having intervened without any meeting between the two—he did not look ill, but instead "looked splendid, with the bloom in his cheeks and his bright blue eyes, nicely shaven, well groomed and very aristocratic looking."

At one time, she admitted she mentioned to him that she was "quite broke" and did not know how she could support her mother.

Questioned about her income after she left the employ of Atty. George Harvey of Boston in 1925, she said she worked for a while for a Reno, Nev., lawyer and let out a summer cottage which sometimes rented for $1200 a year. Harvey is her lawyer in the present case.

HAD MARRIAGE LICENSE.

Marriage licenses issued to the couple in Chatham, where she lived, and Hyannis, where he lived, were presented as exhibits today by her attorney, George Stanley Harvey of Boston, and shown to the jury.

Other exhibits were checks which he said Connolly used in payment of some of the articles in her trousseau.

HERO'S GRAVE FOR CADET

America's most distinguished soldiers.

The 21-year-old Army football star and honor student died in New Haven hospital late yesterday from a broken neck.

Funeral services will be held in the Catholic chapel tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. Interment will follow in the West Point Military Cemetery, where are buried Gen. Winfield Scott, Gen. George Custer, Gen. Robert C. Anderson, who was in command of Fort Sumter in 1861; Gen. George W. Goethals, builder of the Panama Canal, and many another famous military figure of the past.

CADETS TO ATTEND

At the request of Sheridan's mother services both at the chapel and cemetery will be private. The corps of cadets and officers of the post will attend.

The body of the cadet gridiron hero arrived here this noon in a motor hearse from New Haven.

As the hearse and an escort car entered the academy grounds the post flag was lowered to half staff, where it will remain until after the funeral tomorrow.

Sheridan's mother reached here just in advance of the body. There were no ceremonies on the arrival of the funeral cars and except for the cancellation of a scheduled inter-class athletic meet this afternoon and two intercollegiate games tomorrow the routine of the academy went on.

Only a few gray-clad cadets were strung along the walks as the funeral autos swung past. They snapped to salute.

BROTHER AT BEDSIDE.

Yale and Harvard football officials and players today hastened to express sympathy over the cadet's death, and the Notre Dame football squad requested that a special mass be said in the university chapel today. Other Catholic colleges were expected to follow this example.

While Sheridan's mother arrived at the hospital three hours before her son's death, she was denied a last look at the dying cadet.

Dr. Samuel C. Harvey, chief surgeon at the hospital, today said the cadet's brother, Gerald, entered the room in which the youth lay unconscious in the respirator immediately after he arrived at the hospital with his mother.

Because of his opinion that his mother would not be made happier to view her pale, unconscious boy, she was not led to the scene, but was sent to another room and allowed to rest from the exhausting effects of her long journey.

Gerald, however, remained with his brother to the end.

ABSOLVE ELI TEAM

Walter K. Wilson, acting superintendent of the United States Military Academy, today made public a statement absolving the Yale football team of any blame in connection with the death of Sheridan.

The statement follows:

"The officers and cadets of the United States Military Academy mourn the tragic passing of Cadet Richard B. Sheridan, as the result of injuries received in the Army-Yale game, and extend to his bereaved parents their heartfelt sympathy. His death has filled the hearts of everyone on the post with grief.

"Cadet Sheridan was an outstanding member of the corps of cadets, and his popularity as a leader in academic, military and athletic activities was clearly evidenced when his classmates selected him as their president. His life exemplifies the West Pointer's code.

"The accident to Cadet Sheridan was unavoidable, and not the slightest blame in connection therewith attaches to any member of the opposing team. We appreciate that the faculty and student body of Yale University join with us in our sorrow."

Sheridan, whose 149 pounds made him the lightest man on the Army squad, was a varsity end from the start of the present season and his work had been outstanding in the Cadets' early games. Last season, the first in which he was eligible for the varsity, he worked his way from the scrubs to a starting post in several games.

After his graduation from Augusta (Ga.) Junior College, where he was president of his class, treasurer of the student council, lieutenant colonel in the college cadet corps and member of the varsity football and basketball teams, Sheridan joined the regular army and was assigned for duty to Fort Benning, Ga.

NAVY SENDS REGRETS

News of the army cadet player's death was received at the Annapolis Naval Academy with deepest sympathy, and three telegrams of condolence were dispatched to the army contingent by officials of the academy and the cadet regiment.

A varsity soccer game with the University of Delaware and a plebe football game with Allenton Prep school, both scheduled for tomorrow, were cancelled by the West Point athletic department today.

New York Day by Day

The Stage "Stooge"

New York, Oct. 27—The stage "stooge" is finding a shorter cut to theatrical recognition than the understudy. The origin of the term "stooge" is obscure but it is believed to have come from burlesque. The "stooge" is a sort of dead-panned foil for a comedian.

Patsy Kelly began as a "stooge" for Frank Fay in a vaudeville skit. Three other Fay "stooges" have become recognized harlequins in various revues. Perhaps the first to give this form of entertainer a break was Phil Baker. In the beginning the "stooge" interrupted Baker from a box.

It developed into a cross-fire patter in which the "stooge" was given the very best of the gags—always in the form of ridicule for Baker. The original Baker "stooge" left him to become a high salaried gagster in Hollywood. His present "stooge," Mr. Muldowney, has received many offers.

Ted Healy gave rowdy impetus to the calling by featuring a dozen of them in a vaudeville act. Recently Lou Holz employed a gloriously hilarious "stooge" with an idiotic grin for his sensational Palace engagement. He remained after Holz left, in other acts, for several weeks.

Most "stooges," I am told, were picked up on the sidewalks of New York. They were street gamins who danced and clowned for pitched pennies. In the old days on the Bowery they were known as "buskers" and filled ranks of burlesque shows.

There is a clumsy Chaplinesque wistfulness about the "stooge" that rarely fails to catch the audience. He is one of those dead-panned puckish souls upon whom Life is ever playing a prank. The trick of the appeal perhaps is that in real life most of us are "stooges."

* * *

He is a dear old and monumentally tedious gentleman often at New York functions of importance rushing about to bestow quick little handshakes and fluttery compliments. To me there is pathos in his efforts to be noticed just a little—perhaps to ripple the waters of life without making a splash. He was at a gathering last night, trying as usual to be merry and indulge brightly colored acts of grace, but I noticed he slipped away early bearing an expression of disappointment. And it's a commentary on manners of the day that, as he departed, a gin-swigging lady observed: "I hope he misses a couple of steps on his way out."

* * *

Reri, highly press-agented South Sea Island beauty, failed to click in the Follies with her torso-flinging dances and was removed from the cast. She came on the avalanche of praise following her success in the star role of her Tahitian picture, "Tabu." As legends had it, she had many Polynesian lovers and is reputed to have hopped up the pulse of one of the rich playboys of Broadway. But to the audience, her sensuous dancing was stale parsnips.

* * *

Reri and members of her brown skinned entourage—including a toothless, betel-nut-eating old crone who had been her nurse—occupied a flat over a drug store on Sixth avenue near the theater where she played. I saw her softly silhouetted at her window one evening after her dismissal, her chin cupped in hand and looking upon the line of motor cars edging up to the brilliantly lit marquee of the theater where she expected to triumph. I could not but wonder if she were dreaming of moon-kissed Tahitian nights and its lazy charm in contrast to the quick motor jangle of the strange new civilization she gazed upon.

* * *

This is not a first flop of real native dancers from outer rims of the world. On the other hand, the shimmying Dorаldino—reported born in Muncie, Indiana—was a sweeping success, as was later day Gilda Gray who began her rhythmic rumb-bum-bumble in Chicago honky tonks.

Irene Franklin, Broadway's favorite redhead, is in circulation again after four months in Hollywood. She has been dwelling so long among the false fronts and papier mache mansions that every now and then she cops a peek at her husband to see if he goes all the way around or is just a profile.

YALE TEAM REGRETS DEATH OF CADET

Resolution of Sympathy Published by Players in College Daily Paper

New Haven, Oct. 27—Members of the Yale football team published in today's Yale News a resolution of sympathy in the death of Cadet Richard B. Sheridan, Jr., of West Point, who was fatally injured in Saturday's West Point-Yale game. It read:

"Whereas, it has pleased Almighty God in his infinite goodness and mercy to take Richard B. Sheridan, unknown to us in daily life, but made kindred by ties of admiration and respect.

"Resolved, that we, his less friendly rivals in the game to which he was devoted, do hereby express our deepest sympathy for his family and friends in their bereavement, and be it further

"Resolved, that this resolution be printed in the Yale Daily News and a copy thereof sent to his family."

The signatures were: Hester Bares, A. J. Booth, Jr., Arthur S. Hall, Tom Hawley, Robert Lassiter, Jr., Victor Malin, Edward Nichols, J. K. Muhlfeld, H. B. Parker, Edward Rotar, J. A. Sargent, Ray Todd, Jr., John S. Wilburn, MacLean Williamson.

In its own editorial the News

High Tribute Is Paid to West Pointer Who Died Victim of Football Injury

calls the Sheridan death "one of the greatest tragedies in modern football." The passing, it added, came mercifully to the cadet whose life had been sustained solely for 16 hours by artificial respiration.

On behalf of Yale faculty members, students, graduates and friends, the daily expressed sincere sorrow and sympathy. To Dr. Samuel G. Harvey, Dr. Harvey Cushing and other specialists who strove to save the cadet, Yale, the editorial said, is profoundly grateful.

BOY ADMITS WRECK HOAX

the hero who took the ties off the track just in time after the bandits had put them there.

"I thought how fine it would be to be a hero like that, so I waited until after dark and after the Sunset Express had gone by at 6:15. I knew the next train was the Western Express, due here at 6:58.

"So I went down the tracks to where there was a big pile of ties and pulled one off and got it on to the track. Then I went down to where they were working on the street in Faneuil parkway and got a red lantern and set it on the tracks far enough away so the train would stop if I didn't get the cops there in time.

"Then I ran down and pulled the hook for the cops.

"Gee, they got here fast!"

The rest of the story the police knew. How the young "hero" rushed them to the track, pointed out the obstruction, he said he had been unable to move after the "bandits" hit him in the stomach with a club, and modestly accepted their praise for his quick wit in averting a catastrophe.

But in the cold light of retrospection the lad's "heroism" developed some doubtful qualities as it was surveyed by railroad officers and city police.

They asked him to tell and retell his story. For hours he stuck to his version. Then Special Officer Hamlin of the Boston police noticed a dark stain on the boy's shirt, such as might have been made by a creosoted railroad tie, and pressed him about it.

After maintaining steadily for a while that "that is where the robbers hit me," Edward admitted his guilt.

Everybody, waxing sentimental over the boy's "heroic achievement," paid tribute to his courage when, suffering pain, he bravely spread the alarm.

No official action against him has been decided upon, but it is extremely likely that when the boy's father returns from his run tonight Edward, Jr., will be bothered with a real pain somewhere else.

TRUCK IS CLUE TO FUGITIVES

A vanished automobile truck owned by the Milton water department led State authorities to believe today that the two youths who escaped yesterday from the State Farm at Bridgewater are fleeing in that truck and may be headed for Maine.

The truck was found to be missing a short time after police had discovered in the Blue Hills the milk truck stolen by the youths yesterday a short time after their escape.

The fugitives are Ernest Valley of Randolph ave., Milton, and Leo Benoit of Lakeview st., Dracut.

Beauty experts are now studying the supple, graceful movements of wild animals and applying them to training the human body. Read about this in the American Weekly in the next Boston Sunday Advertiser.

STATE LABOR'S CHIEF BACKS HEARST PLAN

A sweeping indorsement of William Randolph Hearst's suggestion of a six-hour working day and stoppage of hampering strikes has been issued by James T. Moriarty, president of Massachusetts Branch, American Federation of Labor.

"Mr. Hearst's advocacy of the six-hour working day receives my heartiest approval," Moriarty said. "It is the only plausible method of relief from our economic depression."

REDUCE UNEMPLOYMENT

"For every three men employed it will take one of our unfortunate unemployed from the ranks of unemployment. If this plan was carried out by employers nothing that has been done or suggested would help more. We are now only a short time off from winter, and there is ample time for large employers of labor to put this plan into force and not put a drain on the city and town treasuries to take care of the large group of unemployed.

BEMOANS STRIKES

"We agree also with Mr. Hearst's statement that working people should not have to strike to get what is justly theirs. We are led to believe we are in a civilized state and there should not be any war between capital and labor. They should meet on common ground and distribute justly. The employers should realize that the distribution of these benefits means advantage to the capitalist classes as well as the consuming and working classes.

"We believe the only step at this time to bring about these changes is the six-hour day.

AIMEE CAUSES R. I. DISPUTE

Providence, Oct. 27—Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton left a nice little row for two relief organizations to settle when she wound up her revival here.

It's about $302.51 collected for the unemployed at her final meeting Sunday night.

She announced she would give it to the Family Welfare Society, but sent the check to the Providence Emergency Unemployment Committee.

Today Clarence A. Praiser, secretary of the Family Welfare Society, made a formal protest against the Emergency Unemployment Committee keeping the check, and was told just as formally by Henry T. Samson, executive director of the committee, that it added to its general fund.

Samson said, however, the money would be divided among four relief organizations and that the largest share would go to the Family Welfare Society.

TEACHERS WILL SEE MONEY

Chicago, Oct. 27 (AP)—Cash for part of the salaries due the 12,000 Chicago school teachers, payless since April, was on its way to the city treasury today.

Officers of the Chicago Surface Lines voted to buy $2,250,000 worth of the tax anticipation warrants.

The money, expected by city officials to be available within a few days, will be split between the city treasury and the school board. At least $562,000 will go into the delayed pay envelopes for teachers.

The Surface Lines Company is the first large corporation which has offered to buy tax warrants to relieve the financial tangle of Chicago, brought on by Cook County reassessment troubles.

Boy, 16, Sentenced to Die

New York, Oct. 27 (AP)—Louis Roper, 16, a Negro, and youngest person convicted of first degree murder for many years, was sentenced today to die in the electric chair. He was convicted of slaying William Groce, 22, taxi driver, during a holdup.

Fire Sweeps Armory But Shells Are Saved

Brunswick, Me., Oc. 27 (AP)—Fire, which started from an explosion of gases in a furnace, today swept through a part of the two-and-one-half-story frame armory of Battery G, 240th Coast Artillery, M. N. G., before being brought under control. The damage was estimated at $3000.

Fifty thousand rounds of ammunition, a 75 mm. anti-aircraft gun, clothing and equipment were carried from the structure by members of the battery and Bowdoin students.

HEAVIEST VOTE IN YEARS SEEN IN BRITAIN

London, Oct. 27 (AP)—One of London's characteristic fogs blotted out the election day sun and threatened for a time to reduce voting to a minimum, but when the offices closed for the day long lines formed at the polling places and it looked as though this would be one of the heaviest votes in many years.

Up to noon the city was in darkness. Lights were turned on in the streets and in the shops but, even so, traffic was snarled and fleets of trucks convoying voters to the polling places were tied up in long delays.

Then for a time the blanket lifted and the big parade began to the ballot boxes.

The fog spread into the Midlands district, but the south coast was clear and at Seaham Harbor, where Ramsay MacDonald is running as a National Labor candidate against a Regular Labor Party man and a Communist, the sun shone all day long.

The experts were banking on a sizable majority for the Government.

The building, formerly the town's "village blacksmith" shop, had of late years been converted into a machine shop. A quantity of paint stored in the building led to the sounding of the second alarm.

NEW JAPANESE ULTIMATUM TO CHINESE

By JAMES R. YOUNG
International News Service Correspondent.

Tokio, Oct. 27 (INS)—A threat of further Japanese military invasion in Manchuria and Mongolia was contained today in an ultimatum sent by the Japanese consul at Tsitsihar to the local government of Heilungkiang province, demanding immediate repair of the Nonkiang River bridge on the Taonan-Angangchi railroad.

The bridge, Japanese charge, was damaged by Chinese soldiers to prevent the advance toward Tsitsihar of the autonomist Mongol army under Gen. Chang Hai-Peng.

The ultimatum gives the Heilungkiang authorities one week to repair the bridge. If the work is not done by that time, Japanese soldiers will seize the bridge and repair it.

The Japanese foreign office is in nightly communication with Moscow about persistent reports of troop movements along the Soviet frontier.

Government spokesmen scoffed at reports of ill feeling between the Soviets and Japanese and revealed both governments had made an unofficial agreement to refrain from activity in the Tsitsihar area.

Only a few of the family's effects were saved. The loss was $2,000.

At the New Bedford Hospital Mrs. Levesque was suffering from a fractured left leg and multiple abrasions and contusions.

WITH A BLARE OF TRUMPETS AND A PARADE OF brilliant uniforms, the Boston Horse Show will open tonight at the Boston Garden. It will be one of the finest spectacles ever witnessed in this town, and Boston can well be proud of the sporting blood of its horse lovers, who are putting on one of the biggest shows in its history at a time when some people are talking hard times.

MRS. GEORGE S. WEST

* * *

Prices have been reduced all around, admissions and subscriptions, and a better show may be seen for the money probably than you will ever see again.

* * *

If you were of those who watched the army teams go over the hurdles last year you will be impatient to sit on the ringside again and thrill at the magnificent exhibitions of superb horsemanship. And we hear that undoubtedly the army officers will show each afternoon and evening in some one or more classes. At this writing the French, English, Irish, Canadian and our own U. S. army teams are expected.

* * *

Luncheon for the exhibitors will be held as usual every day in the Swiss room at the Copley-Plaza. Mrs. Richard Ely Danielson and Mrs. Sumner Pingree, members of the women's entertainment committee, will give dinners this evening before the show, and Mrs. George S. West and Mrs. Richard Saltonstall will entertain during the five days that the show will run.

* * *

Supper Dance at Copley-Plaza

AFTER THE SHOW TONIGHT THE SUPPER DANCE at the Copley-Plaza will draw the crowd, and we hear decorations have been dispensed with to some extent to make way for more tables. We are simply intrigued to find out if the visiting army officers can dance as well as they can ride and who the lucky debs are to be thus honored.

* * *

ALL OUR PATRICIAN LEADERS will be present in their boxes swathed in gorgeous evening wraps and sparkling with jewels real or otherwise. It is really more fun to watch than the opera because there is less formality and much visiting between boxes. The Junior League girls will give out programs. As we have commented so many times, nature plays no favorites. Miss Business-Girl may look over fortune's favorites and feel blessed that her hair curls just as softly, her eyes sparkle as brightly, and slim contours walk as gracefully as Miss Debutante.

* * *

THIS YEAR'S DEBS ARE being rounded up for usher duty at the various charitable affairs, one of the first being the bazaar to aid the Florence Crittenton League on Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 18 and 19, at the Copley-Plaza. This group will include Linda Collens, Dorothea Dean, Constance Holmes, Serita Bartlett, Mary Hodgkinson, Arria Morison, Louisa Richardson, Katherine Thayer and Louise Russell.

* * *

THERE WILL BE A FASHION show as part of the afternoon and evening program and Jane Bancroft will be head of the models. The mannikins will be chosen from this year's as well as last year's group and everyone will be gald to see again Laetitia Orlandini, Priscilla Bramhall, Mary Frost as well as Mary Jane Bigelow, Leslie Blake, Peggy Bradley, Sylvia Cleveland, Elizabeth Cram, Alice Ellsworth, Dorothy Forbes, Helen Homans, Julia Jenkins, Isabella Lee, Elizabeth Marston, Junia Mason, Elizabeth McGinley, Beatrice de Menocal, Harriet Moseley, Elsie Perkins, Emily Perkins, Madelyn Phillips, Charlotte Rantoul, and many others.

* * *

DR. AND MRS. GEORGE GILBERT SMITH and Mr. and Mrs. Winthrop Adams are giving a tea for their debutante daughters, Huldah Smith and Jean Adams at the Country Club with dancing. Miss Smith is the niece of Mrs. S. Prescott Fay and no doubt she will entertain for her later in the season. The Smiths were one of the adventursome who live in Union Park in Boston and their summer home is down Ipswich way.

Youthful Coats Carry Fur

By ANN ARDEN

LAVISH IS the only word that expresses the use of fur on the winter coats. For the young college girls and debutantes busily trotting about the furs should be of the puffy or long haired variety. Long furs for flattery—smartness, too.

* * *

THE COAT pictured is the sort young girls adore; its rich, dark caroul brown contrasted with fluffy, flattering blue fox. The coat is semi-fitted and fastened with self belt across the front run through composition ring to tab on side. The generously large collar and bracelet cuffs contrast with and enrich the nubby tweed and the wearer's appearance, too. The brown felt hat has a well moulded brim and a spray of coque feathers emerging from tip tilt left side.

* * *

BROWN SEEMS the outstanding color choice for all outdoor events. It may be combined successfully with so many colors. Brown with all shades of green is good, and brown with rust is a very interesting combination. Brown is being used with brighter reds and, of course, with yellow it is always good.

* * *

BROWN IS so becoming to so many types of women that it is no wonder they welcome its popularity. And again, there are so many varieties of shades of brown that almost every complexion can be suited by one tone or the other.

* * *

WHETHER the mood of elegance has hit you hard or not, you will want a little something of feather about at least one of your hats.

ANN ARDEN will answer questions concerning clothes, social customs or fashions generally. Address your questions to the Boston Evening American or the Boston Sunday Advertiser or to Station WAAB.

Gray Hair

Best Remedy Is Made At Home

To half pint of water add one ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and one-fourth ounce of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It imparts color to streaked, faded or gray hair and makes it soft and glossy. Barbo will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

Josee Laval Sees the "Vanities"

New York, Oct. 27 (US)—The fascinating and vivacious Josee Laval, daughter of Pierre Laval, premier of France, was the cynosure of all eyes last night at the Earl Carroll theater, where she was the honored guest at a theater party given by Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Paternote and the Daniel E. Sickles.

Mr. and Mrs. Paternote and Mr. and Mrs. Sickles arrived early at the theater, with their guest of honor, following a dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Andre Citroen, and the party occupied seats down front in the orchestra.

The members of the party at the performance of the "Vanities" were, in addition to the two hosts and their wives, and Mlle. Laval, Mr. and Mrs. Citroen, Mlle. Jacqueline Duimier, Mlle. Rene Claudel, Robert Chante Messi, Pierre Du Pasquier and M. Boissier.

From the theater Mlle. Laval visited a night club and went to join her father on the Ile De France which will carry them back to Cherbourg. Mr. Sickles also sailed on the Ile De France but expects to return to New York and join Mrs. Sickles on Upper Park ave., in about a fortnight.

Student Given Waiver, Weds

A week-end marriage was revealed today when it became known that Miss Helen D. Quigley daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Quigley of New Rochelle, N. Y., and David A. Stretch, a second-year student at Harvard law school and an Annapolis graduate were married Saturday night in Cambridge.

Miss Quigley, a graduate of Miss Mason's school, Tarrytown, N. Y., had planned to attend the Harvard-Texas game Saturday with Stretch, but instead the couple decided to be married. They have been engaged for two years.

Judge Robert Walcott in East Cambridge court granted the pair a waiver of the five-day marriage law, and, unable to find a minister, they were married by City Clerk Fred H. Burke at his home, Fairnwood circle, Cambridge.

Mr. Stretch lives at 1622 Massachusetts ave. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert F. Stretch. The couple left Sunday to inform their parents of the marriage.

Opera Season Opens Soon

By CHOLLY KNICKERBOCKER

New York, Oct. 27 (US)—Next Monday night the New York social season of 1931-32 will be inaugurated at the Metropolitan Opera House. Then the interest of all Mayfair will be centered on the famed temple of music at Broadway and 39th st.

As one is seated at the Metropolitan, so is one's social status determined. For years the parterre boxes, known far and wide as the "golden horseshoe," have housed the chieftains of Gotham's elect.

The boxholder list of 1931-32 has been completed.

It is interesting to note that Mrs. E. Henry Harriman's two sons, W. Averill Harriman, whose wife was the first Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, and E. Roland Harriman, will occupy their mother's box 9 on Mondays; while Mrs. Harriman will share her box for matinees with Mrs. Muguette Clark, daughter of Mrs. William A. Clark, and on Thursdays with Constance Schemerhorn. On Wednesdays Charles Thompson Mathews will be host in the loge.

Dr. Ernest Fahnestock and Mrs. John Hubbard, the former Helen Fahnestock, are new additions to box No. 10, which is now controlled by the estate of George F. Baker, and which the late banker shared with William Farnestock, who will also occupy the box this season.

Clarence H. Mackay will be an interesting addition to the "golden horseshoe" on opening night, having acquired Mrs. William Bayard Cutting's box, No. 28, for the occasion. Which is as it should be, for his bride of only a few months, the former Anna Case, once was a leading soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company.

Myron Taylor will be installed in the Arthur Curtiss James box a week from tonight and thereafter will share the adjoining loge owned by George Henry Warren.

Music Clubs at Hotel Statler Luncheon

The Massachusetts Federation of Music Clubs, of which Mrs. Frederick L. Milliken is president, is holding its first luncheon of the season at the Hotel Statler today at 1 o'clock. The general topic for discussion is the "Musical Advantages That Boston Is Offering to the Young Musician."

Mr. Frederick S. Converse, the new dean of the New England Conservatory of Music; Mrs. William Stanley Parker of the Longy School of Music, Mr. and Mrs. F. Addison Porter, and Mrs. Frederick Tillotson of the Erskine and Longy Schools of Music will be among the guests of honor, and each are to speak.

Miss Grace Cronin of Milton is the soloist today. Miss Cronin has been successful in winning a piano scholarship at the Julliard School in New York.

TRUST LAW CURB ON SELFISH

New York, Oct. 27 (AP)—Man's selfishness and vanity preclude repeal or extensive revision of the anti-trust laws, Chester W. Cuthell, general counsel of the Curtiss-Wright corporation, told the New York University conference on law and business today.

"The Sherman law and all of its predecessors were alike in their efforts to control one of the most unlovely attributes of human nature, selfishness," he said. "The Sherman law has, accordingly, interferred with the normal habits of those business men who measure their degree of success entirely by the extent of their conrtol over the production and price of a commodity.

"There is little use to lecture the business men on the need for abandoning selfish motives. I think we could get nearer to a solution if we dealt with selfishness as one of the facts of life—indeed, as one of the essential characteristics of a sucessful bpsinessman.

"It is my opinion that the supply of truly unselfish leaders of industry is so limited that we must keep the Sherman law and that, with all its obvious defects, it does represent the consensus of all thinking people; that is that a government should not permit the exploitation of the great mass of citizens by or for the benefit of a few."

$1,670,406 CUT FROM DEBTS

New York, Oct. 27 (AP)—In a decision upholding Harold P. Coffin, referee in bankruptcy, Federal Judge Bondy wiped a claim for $1,670,406.35 from the list of contingent liabilities of Schulte-United, Inc., today.

The claimant, Aaron Hurwitz, leased in toto a building in Wilkes-barre to the corporation in 1929 for 25 years. The initial rental, $46,509 a year, was to step until 1954 to a maximum of $68,250.

Hurwitz based his claim on the bankruptcy proceedings began a few months ago and the abandonment of the premises by the corporation.

Judge Bondy ruled that the lease did not provide for liquidated damages in case of any breach.

A SAFE PLACE TO ECONOMIZE

DR. RYAN URGES FIVE BILLION JOB PROGRAM

By ROBERT S. ALLEN
International News Service Correspondent.

Washington, Oct. 27 (INS)—The Rev Dr. John A. Ryan, noted economist and humanitarian, today called upon Congress for the prompt enactment of a five billion dollar public works program to break the economic depression.

The vast enterprise he declared, should be financed by 4 per cent government bond issues to be paid for by increased taxes on high incomes and large inheritances. Failure to adopt such a constructive plan, Dr. Ryan warned, will mean "increased pressure for a dole."

He submitted his far-reaching program and views before the La Follette Senate committee which is conducting an extensive study into the causes of business depression and their possible solution. He testified as chairman of the subcommittee on public works of the Progressive conference which met last March.

He vigorously condemned the President's unemployment relief policy as a "starvation method," charging it was "not sufficient to see that no one actually died from lack of food."

Dr. Ryan challenges the administration's claim that the United States cannot emerge from the depression until business conditions improve in Europe. He declared that only 5 per cent of the country's trade is in the foreign field.

De Valera Declares War on Oath to King

Dublin, Irish Free State, Oct. 27 (AP)—Eamon De Valera told delegates to the Fianna Fail convention today that the first act of a Fianna Fail Government in Ireland would be removal from the Constitution of the Oath of Allegiance to the King.

Such a government's attitude toward relations with Great Britain would be one of non-co-operation, he said, if Great Britain persisted in enforcing the terms of the treaty of 1922.

New 'Real Daughter' of Revolution Found

Six of the "real daughters" survive.

LEADERS TO AID IN REVIVAL OF 'THE MIRACLE'

Revival in Boston for the benefit of the city's needy of Morris Gest's great theatrical spectacle, "The Miracle," is virtually assured, according to announcement today from Mayor Curley.

At a luncheon he will give at 1 p.m. tomorrow in the Boston City Club to Mr. Gest and 75 leading business and professional men of Boston, the Mayor said, arrangements will be launched to sponsor the production of "The Miracle" in Boston Garden for three weeks next March.

The famous producer first offered several weeks ago to present the impressive entertainment here with all profits to go to the City Welfare Department, and his proposal was promptly and heartily endorsed by the Mayor and other civic leaders.

At tomorrow's luncheon, arrangements for which are in the hands of Standish Willcox, Mayor Curley's social secretary, Mr. Gest will renew his offer and outline in more detail the plans tentatively advanced before.

It is hoped, Mayor Curley said, to form the 75 guests at the luncheon into a committee that will sponsor the production.

Oklahoma Troops Taken From Bridge

Durant, Okla., Oct. 27 (AP)—All was quiet on the Red River "front" today. Traffic rolled without interruption over the Durant-Denison free bridge, while owners of the parallel toll span fretted at the delay in hearing their petition for a federal injunction to close the free bridge.

National Guards, called yesterday by Gov. W. H. Murray "for emergency," withdrew last night.

Car Upsets, Hurling Girl Against Rock

Franklin, N. H., Oct. 27 (AP)—Miss Alice R. Tiernan, 27, of Randolph, Mass., was killed in an automobile accident on the Salisbury road today. She was driving the machine of George Beattie of Franklin when it overturned on a hill, throwing her against a rock beside the road.

Miss Hazel Main of Franklin, a companion, was injured.

Blizzard Hits 2 Northwestern States

Helena, Mont., Oct. 27 (AP)—A forecast of "fair and colder" weather today pressed the stamp of winter on Wyoming and Montana. Snow and wind storms swept the region yesterday.

The mountains of Montana were covered with snow and roads leading through the southern and eastern entrances to Yellowstone Park were clogged by a fall of 18 inches deep. Three inches of snow covered Anaconda. In western and southwestern Wyoming a blizzard disrupted traffic and communication lines.

Nothing in Nature is too trivial to attract the attention of scientists. An expedition of the Canadian Government spent 14 months in the Arctic searching for a blue goose nest. Read about it in the American Weekly in the next Boston Sunday Advertiser.

KATHLEEN NORRIS

A Woman Beloved by Millions

KATHLEEN NORRIS—to millions of Americans the name is the symbol of romance . . . high ideals . . . noble adventure.

A California girl, KATHLEEN NORRIS inherited at 18 a family of six. Besides being a mother to her brothers and sisters, she engaged in settlement work among unfortunate families. Later she married the noted novelist, CHARLES G. NORRIS, and became a mother in her own right. Then she extended her care to eight children. What a world of experience from which to draw!

There came to her early an urge to write. She became a society reporter on a San Francisco paper, and soon was given other assignments that showed her the sweep of life.

Magazine editors and book publishers saw that here was a writer who could both entertain and inspire. The throb of her big heart began to be felt in short stories and novels. Young women everywhere became attracted to her. Here at last was a writer of brains and heart who understood them. Now her audience numbers millions.

KATHLEEN NORRIS wants to pass on to young people the joy and inspiration she herself has derived from life. She wants her readers to realize that they can achieve character and success in the complex world of today. She dedicates her art as a story-teller to the creation of ideals that will be a torch to the young people of America.

"YOUNG MOTHER HUBBARD" TENDED HER CUPBOARD

While a rich young Ex-Wife Lured Away her Husband

IF you were Felicia, a young wife devoted to a poor but attractive husband . . . If a rich young ex-wife used every enticement to win your husband away from you . . . Would you do what Felicia did—decide to maintain a home for your babies and let your husband go off to Paris, as the other woman wanted?

Felicia's experiences are those of thousands of courageous young women who today face both financial difficulties and social temptations. In this vivid novel by that superb story-teller, Kathleen Norris, you get a fascinating view of how our young people are meeting the newest problems of our modern civilization. Be sure to read "Young Mother Hubbard," the literary event of the season, beginning in November Good Housekeeping, on sale now!

"ALISON'S HOUSE" IS REAL AMERICAN DRAMA

THE VOICE OF Broadway

By Louis Sobol

Down Memory Lane!

(With Willie and Eugene Howard)

(In Which the Boys Tell on Each [illegible])

Willie impersonating Sam Bernard and Joe Weber in H[illegible] Museum as a kid. One day Sam Bernard [illegible] got stage fright. Years later Bernard [illegible] never gave imitations of himself.

Starting in vaudeville as the Messenger Boy team, W[illegible] dialect commedian from the outset, Eugene playing a [illegible] Tom Dunn, now on Wall Street [illegible] trio—the only outsider ever to join the [illegible] gentiles in the theatrical profession [illegible]

Getting chased out of Tony Pastor's by the proprietor who mistook us for authentic messenger boys [illegible] stood around all the time. Singing "Down in the Coal Mine" with Tony insisting on completing the quartet when he discovered his mistake. Here's the song and don't say we didn't warn you:

Down in the coal mine [illegible]
Where no ray of sunshine [illegible]
Digging dusky diam[illegible]
Down in the coal mine [illegible]

Our first appearance together [illegible] the Empire City Quartet when Harry C[illegible] took sick. A Jewish holiday [illegible] We heard them all imit[illegible] realized it was no imitation.

Willie harmonizing [illegible] Once the manager came [illegible] hear him all over the house.

Watching a stuttering [illegible] the Greasy Vest in Chicago [illegible] able to overcome his vocal impediment [illegible]

Chatting with the stout violinist at the Tabor Grand Theater in Denver. Years later Paul Whiteman came in to see us after a show and we remembered the figure but not the face until he reminded us of Denver.

Fixing up a vaudeville [illegible] White and K[illegible] quiet little fellow by the name of George White and [illegible] a big future for him. We never [illegible] ally be our boss in four editions of "Scandals."

Playing with White again and with A. Jolson in "The Whirl of Society." George winning $200 in a crap game and staying up all night to buy his first [illegible] a big [illegible] the balance he tried [illegible] of it now.

Being rudely awakened during a midday nap by [illegible] voice we ever heard. Telling its owner [illegible] never hold out if she continued to strain them [illegible] years later we met Sophie Tucker [illegible]

The promise of our names on the marquee of the Victoria Theater when we were engaged for a week by the great Oscar Hammerstein himself. Playing the night before at the Winter Garden and passing the Victoria the following morning in time to see our names being painted out of the sign.

Willie imitating David Belasco and Warfield in "The Passing Show of 1912" and renting a wig because he didn't think the show would run long enough to pay for an outright purchase. Spending enough on that wig in the first year's run to take a plunge in Wall Street. The difference was we still have the wig to show for it.

The international [illegible] engagement of "Whirl of the World," [illegible] working its way up into inflation figures. McIntyre and Heath, Lew Cody, Ralph Hertz and Walter C. Kelly [illegible] with a different accent. But Hertz [illegible] knowledge of the game, talked the only language [illegible]

Getting in a fight over Charlie Chaplin on New Year's Eve of 1915 in Chicago. Willie [illegible] Chaplin as [illegible] greatest comic in films, and John C. Bunny [illegible] affront. Chaplin had just signed a big movie contract and was planning to retire at the end of the year, [illegible] think [illegible] vogue would last much longer.

Planning a burlesque opera for the 1915 edition of "The Passing Show." Asking for the Ponselle Sisters for the act but losing out because they demanded all of $2[illegible] a week. Persuading Lee Shubert to buy a special drop for the scene and then losing it in a fire in Spokane the first week out.

Watching the unknown who sat out front [illegible] New York and showered the girls with flowers [illegible] trinkets. Seeing him come [illegible] Jean Charles T[illegible] the singer was ill and learning [illegible] ing. Hollywood may be interested [illegible] directors once sang in musical revues.

Going out to a dinner party under protest and explaining to the hostess that we usually didn't accept such invitations because people were always asking whether we used make-up or wore masks and the like. At that the lady raised her eyebrows. "Do you really wear masks?" she asked. That's why we've eaten in restaurants ever since.

Appearing with the Astaires in a wartime "Passing Show," playing a dozen camps and hospitals with them [illegible] performances each week on tour. [illegible] Adele was a bigger hit than any of the rest of us with the soldiers.

Our first starring appearance, in the 1921 version of the perennial "Passing Show," and the satisfaction of seeing our name on top after 20 years. Playing for the Hardings in Washington and getting Mrs. Harding's request for an imitation of Jack Norworth. Although I was afraid it was too old to get across, I sang "Harvest Moon." Visiting the White House the next day, when I discovered that the President had noticed that I had to refresh my memory of the lyrics with a printed version of the song in my hat. He remarked that he had enjoyed the number, even though I was singing through my hat.

Willie understudying Harry Richman in the "Scandals." Playing Richman's part and his own one night and bumping into himself leaving the stage at every entrance. Later getting a magnificent set of diamond cuff links from Harry, the only gift we ever received for going on in someone else's place.

Peppy is the word for the "Red Pepper Revue" Burlesquers at Waldron's Casino. The week's engagement started off yesterday at a hot pace.

RKO WILL INTRODUCE BENITA HUME TO AMERICAN MOVIE FANS

London Actress' First Is 'Half Way to Heaven' by Young Polan Banks

Motion Picture Editor Universal Service

[illegible] Oct. 27—Whom [illegible] I see [illegible] at a typewriter on the train but young Polan Banks, author of "[illegible] Women" and other current novels. Young Banks was writing, of all things, a scenario which is to be put on the screen by R. K. O.

Louella O. Parsons

He is headed, of course, for Hollywood where his "Half Way to Heaven" is to introduce Benita Hume, London actress, to the movie fans. Miss Hume will be co-starred with Lawrence Olivier who is destined by R. K. O. to be their Ronald Colman.

I saw photographs of Benita Hume. She is a combination of Evelyn Brent and Kay Francis and really very pretty. A brunette with the allure of a blonde.

You have to [illegible] for young [illegible], [illegible] is ambitious. He [illegible] Ben [illegible] to New York to confer with H. G. Wells. Mr. Wells, one of the [illegible] of the day, will be invited to come to Universal City [illegible]. The [illegible] Man, the rights of which he sold to Carl Laemmle. Sr. Mr. Wells up to now has expressed little interest in motion pictures, but he might consider it worth while to write the adaptation of his own story. He would have to go to Hollywood to do that, although we would like [illegible] the motion picture capital [illegible] exciting features of [illegible] pictures.

Seen and Heard

The former Mrs. Walter Huston is getting ready to stage a professional career. As Bayonne Whipple she used to be known on the stage, but she retired when Mr. Huston left vaudeville to become a legitimate actor. She is not using the name Huston so I [illegible] Walter cannot object.

[illegible] Rogers was offered a nice [illegible] contract to sing on the radio. I met Ginger and her mother at the National Broadcasting office. Her mother looks almost as young as Ginger. I certainly was surprised when I heard that Mrs. Rogers was formerly married to [illegible] Edmund Jones. Mark used to [illegible] me scenarios when I was [illegible] the Essanay Company. He [illegible] head of a school of philosophy [illegible] Los Angeles.

Francis Lederer, the star of the play, may come to New York when it opens on Broadway.

Helen Hayes on Screen at Loew's State Friday

Beginning Friday at Loew's State Helen Hayes, stage star, makes her bow on the screen in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "The Sin of Madelon Claudet," screen version of Edward Knoblock's play "Lullaby."

Miss Hayes will be recalled as "the act of God mother" who left the stage play of "Coquette" under fire of the producer in order to play the role of mother in real life. Her husband Charles MacArthur, who with Ben Hecht co-authored "The Front Page" and "The Unholy Garden," has adapted the play to the screen. The story is a strong drama.

Rose Zulalian

Rose Zulalian, contralto, will give a song recital in Symphony Hall Sunday afternoon, Nov. 15. Bernard Zighera will accompany her. The program will include numbers by Haydn, Purcell, Paisiello, Wolf, Strauss, Gounod and Gulesian. A group of songs by Warren Storey-Smith and four Armenian songs are featured in Mme. Zulalian's recital.

At the Bowdoin

At the Bowdoin Square there is another good picture program with seven acts of vaudeville. The films are "The Phantom of Paris" and "The Big Gamble."

DECORATIONS BY DENNISON

PLENTY OF FUN FOR EVERYONE

Witches always seem to know
Just how to make a party go.
And one who knows a thing or two
Suggests these clever things to do:

FUNNY BONES

This game requires a quick mind. The players sit in a circle. "It" goes from player to player. "This is my eye!" says "it" and puts his finger on his knee. The player addressed must then point to his eye announcing, "This is my knee!" before "it" counts 10. If he fails he automatically becomes "it".

THE WITCH'S CAT

This is a race. The party is divided into groups and each group is given a black cardboard cat, cut into a number of pieces. The race, of course, is to assemble the puzzle and make the Witch's Cat.

THE [illegible] NEEDLE

A broomstick is put through the handles of an ordinary wash-tub—the ends of the broomstick supported on chairs. In turn, the players sit astride the broomstick with feet in the tub. In this position they try to thread a needle. We recommend a large needle!

WITCH AND PUMPKIN

The "witch" sits on the floor in front of a doorway. A sheet is hung over the doorway and a light placed behind it. The other players go into the adjoining room, and each in turn—holding a pumpkin cutout before his face—walks by the sheet. The witch attempts to guess the player's name from his shadow. The player does his best to disguise his walk. When the "witch" guesses correctly, the player named becomes the witch and takes a turn guessing.

GOBLINS, attention! Note columns at right and left. Follow directions for the smartest Hallowe'en party you ever set foot in. Stunts that amaze and amuse. Treats that jollify the appetite! Wonder-Cut treats, of course, made doubly delicious by the best bread baked—Wonder-Cut Bread.

And just a hint to Hallowe'en Hostesses: Wonder-Cut Bread is sliced. That means that it's quick and convenient—that it will save you a load of little bothers. Save you minutes, too, and help you really enjoy your party.

Wonder-Cut—the favorite at thousands of parties—gives every meal a party flavor. Selected ingredients and Slo-Baking make it fully nourishing. And delicious to the last slice. But, above all, Wonder-Cut is an honest full value bread—the kind you want for family and friends. At your grocer's. Oven-fresh!

ADAMS GIVES NEW HOPE FOR NAVY YARD

Dorchester Folk Carry School Fight to City Council

THIS IS LIFE

ONE MIGHT SLIP GAG ON THIS NAVY DAY AND REVEAL OUR FOLLY

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

NAVY DAY, like so many of our semi-official "days" [illegible] which we are advised to be serious-minded, for once, about something of national or social importance, always runs the risk of being celebrated with perfunctory [illegible] spect.

ROBERT E. ROGERS

This year, however, to [illegible] at least, there are all the [illegible] general public interest in the [illegible] Navy, its past, its problems [illegible] the scheme of things and [illegible] especially its future.

The Secretary of [illegible] again a New Englander [illegible] body seems to respect and [illegible] the country at large. I [illegible] vague notion [illegible] a Secretary of the Navy [illegible] New England than from [illegible] Kansas. Our naval history is [illegible] with New England particularly that of the Revolution and the War of 1812. The Charlestown Navy Yard is ours. The Constitution's home is here and—pray God!—will be here again when she has done making [illegible] sonal appearances." And Boston has always been keenly interested in reminding historians that [illegible] John Paul Jones need not be forgotten. Commodore John Barry must be remembered. And Captain Isaac Hull.

Civilian Gag-Power Doubtless Illegal

The news comes that Secretary Adams has had to muzzle the navy officers, apparently at the behest of Mr. Hoover. This is one result of the successful old English-speaking tradition that the control of our armed forces shall be in the hands of civilians, whose profession is not war. Whether that tradition demands that the professional soldier or naval officer shall not be allowed to express himself on matters of policy concerning [illegible] profession about which he knows more than any other is highly debatable. Admitting that the final decision must rest with the civilian control, there is no doubt that our public would have more faith in its decisions were we to know also the opinions of the fighting force.

For all these reasons the American people may take a little more interest than usual in the oratory accompanying the celebration of the day. The Secretary may say something important. Some admiral, in the best naval tradition, may slip the gag and put something on record before he can be silenced. Certainly the feeling of New England about our Navy Yard will be expressed in no uncertain terms. The peace-at-any price enthusiasts, the extreme disarmamentarians will also be heard. They will be worth listening to, because there is no question that they are becoming very, very powerful.

What are we to think about this matter of disarmament? I am not thinking of the specific question of our Navy Yard, since there the disarmament philosophy can be successfully camouflaged as a specific piece of policy in economy and distribution of resources. I am thinking rather of the whole philosophy, which believes that disarmament will really prevent war. It is held by many thousands of our best, our most sincere, most intelligent, and idealistic people. They may very well seriously influence Congress and the President, as other sincere, idealistic and well-organized minorities have influenced Presidents before.

Misguided and Simple Pacifists

The trouble lies in the word "idealist." That word and that concept have made infinite trouble in the world. It is so respectable, so irreproachable, so disinterested and selfless. The people who talk of our "pacifists" as being communists at heart, whether or not actually in the pay of Russia, willing to see our American institutions destroyed that revolution may profit, these people are plain fools. Behind them is an infinitely more powerful and subversive force than Russia will ever be.

Many of these people are at heart citizens in St. Augustine's City of God, in More's Utopia, in Peter Pan's Never-Never-Never Land, where dreams come true. They are the blessed innocents of life, such as we should all like, at the bottom of our hearts, to be. Like pet animals in a kind home they trust that nothing will ever hurt them. And some day another dog, or a cruel boy or an automobile gets them.

But others of these people do harm, all the same. These may pretend, or believe themselves to be, experts in real-politik, full of acumen about economics and sociology, but they seldom "see life steadily and see it whole." They prefer to wear one rose-colored eyeglass and one black. From one point of view they see the unescapable pain and suffering of a normal world with such horror that they try to infect us all with their abnormal shrinking from certain aspects of life which are inextricably bound up with the more brutal fact of life.

Man Not to Be Trusted

From another, and absolutely contradictory, point of view they see man as so eminently reasonable, so compact of thwarted spirituality, that they would persuade us that all man needs is to be forced to be good and he will delight in it. Man is so bad that no opportunity must be given him to be bad. Man is so good that once let him experience the good and he will never backslide. So they blow hot and cold.

But if history tells us anything, it tells us that its whole is greater than the sum of their parts. The simple truth is man is not to be trusted. There is something in him—call it the animal, if you like, call it the devil, if you like—that is not to be trusted. Education merely scratches its surface, religion has never succeeded in taming it. Every man recognizes its presence in himself. No man knows when despite his education, his religion, his financial security and his social good habits, the thing will take possession of him and master him. And man is just sensible and intelligent enough to recognize that he is never so securely guided and disciplined by reason and aspiration as to be altogether safe. Recognizing this in himself, he recognizes it too, in everybody else. Hence, he demands police forces and judges and armies and navies to protect him. For he knows that he is confronting, not a chimaera, but reality.

The Folly of Unpreparedness

Were we to disband our police forces in the face of an internal danger of gangsters and racketeers, we should be just as foolish, no more and no less, as we should be were we to disarm in the face of a

MEMBERS OF 13 GROUPS AT MEETING

'Land Grab' Attempt Charged by Lyons in Defense of Grove Hall Site

Members of 13 [illegible] organizations [illegible] in a body today to the special City Council meeting at [illegible] hearing on a bond issue for the new Dorchester [illegible] school will be [illegible] to protest against the [illegible] Grove Hall.

[illegible] Dorchester last night [illegible] Committeeman Joseph B. Lyons bitterly attacked two Dorchester men charging colossal "land grab" [illegible] school in the Meeting House Hill section.

EXTRA COST CITED

Lyons bitterly assailed the motives of William [illegible] of last night's meeting and [illegible] J. Connolly, president of the Dorchester Board of Trade. He charged they were financially interested in [illegible] Meeting House Hill site.

He pointed out that [illegible] on the Meeting House Hill [illegible] to prepare a [illegible] school. On the other hand [illegible] building could start immediately on the Grove Hall site.

THREATENED, HE SAYS

Lyons also charged that Connolly had threatened him with reprisals because of his opposition. He said the board of trade president had threatened to send [illegible] 00 postcards to voters to defeat him.

He asserted the entire school committee was with him except Chairman [illegible] who reported from the original plan to [illegible] in Grove Hall.

He insisted that if another site were selected a year would be wasted in taking and another [illegible] would be another year before construction would be started. He pointed out that Mayor Curley was aware of the situation and was interested in getting construction started immediately.

President Connolly explained from the floor that he could not enter any political controversy because of his duties as superintendent of the Uphams Corner post-office branch. He insisted, however, that the interests of his five children allowed him to work for the new high school.

DENIES THREATS

He denied the reprisal threats credited to him by Lyons. Regarding the Meeting House Hill site he pointed out that of the nine acres eight and one-half have been fully [illegible]. Only one-half acre was covered with rock formation, he said.

Paul [illegible] who sat directly behind Lyons during the latter's bitter attack from the platform made no reply.

School Committee Chairman Joseph Hurley admitted that he had originally favored the Grove Hall site. He said this was more than three years ago when he understood that the need for accommodations was great in Roxbury and slight in Dorchester.

He said that since that time the need has increased in Dorchester and he feels that the new girls' high school should be centrally located. For that reason he said, he turned to the Meeting House Hill site as being more favorable.

Get All Today's News Today! The American Has It!

Again the Boston Evening American was FIRST with the news!

This time by the widest possible margin.

The Boston Evening American was the ONLY newspaper in this city to publish in any of yesterday's editions news of the tragic death of Cadet Richard B. Sheridan, Jr.

Mindful of the high pitch of [illegible] aroused by the [illegible] Army [illegible] this newspaper, with the flash of the report from New [illegible] of Cadet Sheridan's death, rushed to the streets an extra edition carrying complete details.

Realizing, too, that because of the circumstances news of the injured cadet was awaited most anxiously at Harvard University, against which Sheridan played at West Point 10 days ago, a special successful effort was made to hasten the news to Harvard [illegible]

Within 15 minutes after Cadet Sheridan died copies of the extra edition were available on the Harvard campus and in the dormitories and dining halls, to the expressed appreciation of hundreds of Harvard men.

Again the Boston Evening American printed TODAY'S big news story YESTERDAY.

This, then, is an appeal to people who still have money liberally to subscribe to the funds now being raised. Unless those of goodly fortunes are most generous in their response enough will not be raised. And if the amount required is not subscribed through the liberal contributions of these most capable of giving we have the warning of Senator Borah that the Government will find the money through increased taxation that will fall most heavily upon these very men.

SORE THROAT

There's a world of winter comfort in Bayer Aspirin tablets. If you take them only to break-up colds, you know only half the story. Three tablets crushed in a little water will relieve the sorest throat with one good gargle. That's what the specialists use in cases of sore throat. That's what you ought to use at home—every time you want throat comfort and protection from infection. Remember, every case of tonsilitis began with just a sore throat! Don't neglect any sore throat. Gargle with Bayer Aspirin at the first tickling felt. Take a couple of tablets for that headache that comes with a cold—for neuralgia, neuritis, or similar pain. If it's genuine Bayer, it can't hurt the heart.

WHO WILL ENGAGE POETS TO WRITE FOR HOOVER?

By GILBERT SELDES

GILBERT SELDES

SOMETIMES IN OBSCURE STREETS you find little [illegible] [illegible] to verse. They begin with "No Tru[illegible] No F[illegible] [illegible] every year I believed the perfection of [illegible] and go on to longer and more sustained [illegible]. For the best [illegible] and good meats buy your groceries at H[illegible]. Years ago rhymes were considered good advertising; there were entertaining pictures and jingles [illegible] and several other [illegible] advertisers stick to grim prose [illegible] and to purple patches [illegible] for the rest. And this is not [illegible] from which poetry has been driven. A hundred years ago a radical [illegible] like the New Masses would have dozens of [illegible] in octaves in verse. [illegible] the authors of the [illegible] in Bobby Edwards [illegible] for the masses [illegible] classes. [illegible] working classes? The art of the cartoonist has taken the place of the art of the poet.

No Political Satire

Even the New Yorker [illegible] excellent satiric verse, is far better in its pictures. The Republican Party does not engage a poet to write half a dozen slashing epigrams about Mr. Raskob; it engages a biographer and a cartoonist. I recall no modern successor to the "Biglow Papers"; no great poem about the great war. The poets who can write and lines seem more interested in [illegible] affairs, subway manners and literature. Franklin P. Adams, who is one of the best of them, growls, for [illegible] free verse, which he detests to the point of fury, [illegible] over [illegible], bank failures, and steel at 205. But [illegible] a public question, he knows how to do it. Here [illegible] what a [illegible] delegate thinks about [illegible] "Christopher Columbus."

[illegible] foreign fellow man
[illegible] pacific plan
[illegible] no building battleships
[illegible] war's entire eclipse
[illegible] in the air and on the sea
[illegible] can't put anything over on me

Excellent Verse

[illegible] with Mr. Adams [illegible] about things which amuse him and what he [illegible]. The opening poems are parodies on [illegible] on Columbus, Franklin, and Noah Webster, [illegible] and well-made; later, familiar Adam, theme[illegible] from the Latin, wry comparisons between himself and poets of another day, and his tribute to journalism, as the New York World [illegible] dying: "She's love and hate and death and [illegible] says my wife. I like her." Summary: 116 pages, 52 poems, one for every week in the year, and not a [illegible] or bad-starred one.

Tough Hombres

Damon Runyon is one of [illegible] farmers who have seen all the neighbors [illegible] and finally decided to sink a well [illegible]. And he's got [illegible] which so far has thrown into the [illegible] a great grade of [illegible]. The book is called "Guys and Dolls." Mr. Runyon's [illegible] is a small one; it is marked on one side by the restaurant [illegible] Rothstein went to his death; on the other by a few [illegible] clubs; the remaining boundaries are a little [illegible]. [illegible] in a race-track and a speakeast, you cover the ground. But he works intensively; he knows the people [illegible] the way they talk; he understands how they think.

A New Language

All of the stories are told by a single [illegible] [illegible] permanently, and although he takes only [illegible] part, he is the most interesting character in the [illegible]. He is a timid soul among racketeers [illegible] of [illegible]. He watches gyp games and [illegible] affairs and practical jokes and acts of heroism and a few murders with [illegible], and tells about them coolly in [illegible] language. A certain contempt runs [illegible]. For example:

"Of course, I never buy any drinks in Good Time Charley's for hostesses, or anybody else, and especially for myself, because I am a personal friend of Good Time Charley and he will not sell me any drinks even if I wish to buy any, which is unlikely, as Good Time Charley figures that anybody who buys drinks in his place is apt to drink these drinks, and Charley does not care to see any of his personal friends drinking drinks in his place. If one of his personal friends wishes to buy a drink, Charley always sends him to Jack Fogarty's little speak, down the street, and in fact Charley will generally go with him."

Genuine Stuff

The [illegible] conversation you hear in small [illegible] you pass [illegible] are fling into subway trains [illegible] watch steam-shovels. (The narrator of the stories is a confirmed watcher of steam-shovels, I am sure; he watches everything.) The same [illegible]ticism about night clubs and their gaiety, about thugs and their courage, about murderers and their codes of honor, runs through all the yarns. But it isn't pressed; it transpires. And in the meantime stories, comic or melodramatic or tragic, are easily told.

I recommend the story called "The Brain Goes Home." "The Brain" is Rothstein and the home he goes to is not the home of his wife or of the three other women who should, but refuse to, take in his wounded body. It is not as funny as the others; on the other hand, it hasn't quite the ready-made finish, the magazine story polish, and it sounds remarkably real. And the story of the gangster's doll who took a strange revenge for the murder of her guy is nearly as effective. Runyon likes the trick ending; a story is doubled in value because you find out who the main character really is at the very end. Actually he doesn't need it. He's even better than he thinks he is.

HEALTH ALTERS DRUG STORES

The constant decrease of ill health and corresponding loss of demand for medicines has forced the druggist into the sale of other commodities, Mr. Green said.

Other factors are the increase in proprietary medicines, with small profit to the druggist, and affecting his prescription business, and many communities too small to support a stationery store, for instance, demanding more and more accommodation of the drug store.

A warning against substitutes for genuine Kotex

YES, some substitutes are cleverly made to look like Kotex. But that doesn't make them the same.

Are they clean, like Kotex? Scientifically made in surroundings of hospital cleanliness? Have modern methods been used, so that hands have never touched them?

These questions remain unanswered, when you accept a substitute whose makers you know nothing — and they are directly related to your health.

Accept no substitute of whose origin you are uncertain. When buying sanitary pads already wrapped, ask the clerk, "Is this real Kotex?" Thus be sure you are getting no inferior substitute.

Kotex is supremely comfortable. Shaped to fit. Adjustable. Stays soft for hours. Hospitals use it. So should you.

Bit About Those Who Watch and Wait

When [illegible] Sheridan, Army end, was carried off [illegible] in the Yale game last Saturday it was [illegible] Army football tragedy. Back in 1919 [illegible] Cadet [illegible] in a like way in a Harvard game [illegible]

[illegible]

The Crimson [illegible]

Our [illegible] spectators [illegible] that [illegible] in the stands. Their boy died [illegible] the Post Hospital there at West Point ten or twelve hours later. That [illegible] perhaps many times since we have [illegible] "as college football worth while?"

[illegible] Ma Brouillard went to the Boston Garden [illegible] night to see her boy fight for the welterweight championship of the world. Ma Brouillard saw her lad win the crown. Pa Brouillard [illegible] Pa fidgeted through two of the preliminaries and then [illegible] no longer, telling his wife the strain was too much and he must go.

"Mon [illegible] the champion. [illegible] to combat."

M[illegible] He [illegible] the battle!"

"Oui! Pardieu! Mais je ne veux pas le voir [illegible] battre [illegible] father [illegible] frapper par terre [illegible] je le pourrais à coup de pieds! Mais [illegible] apprehender par la loi. Je ne puis rester pour voir le combat. Je suis trop nerveux."

Pardieu! Yes! But I cannot see him hurt. Because if the [illegible] man should knock him down I would have to jump into the ring and kick him. That would be bad and we all would be arrested. I cannot watch the fight. I am too nervous."

And so Pa Brouillard was taken from the Boston Garden to a moving picture theater and did not return to the Boston Garden until word was brought him his boy was safe and a world's champion. But Ma Brouillard grimly sat it through. Wasn't she the Mother of the Champion?

Another mother of a champion anxiously will be awaiting in an apartment in one of the better sections, Up Town, New York, tonight, for a long distance telephone call from Boston. Years ago she would wait in a dingy little flat in the heart of The Ghetto. There was no telephone then. Nervously she would wait for the hurrying feet on the sidewalk and then on the stair. The door would burst open and into her arms would rush a young [illegible] claiming:

"I won, Ma! Gee, I won again!"

"Es macht nisht veres hat gevunen!" she would [illegible] excitable Yiddish. "Bist goveren beshadick?"

"Never mind who won! Are you hurt?"

The youngster would answer, "No, Ma, I didn't get hurt. Of course I didn't get hurt. Why, Ma, he didn't even muss up my hair!" Then, and then only, would peace come in her [illegible] and she would say:

"Ach! Es iss gut. Es iss gut!"

It is well. It is well!"

Many, many time that home-coming and conversation took place in that dingy little home in The Ghetto. Then the fists of the little fighter made money and money bought the big Leiner family a new home Up Town. Fame came to Benny Leonard and with it out of town engagements. And always by the telephone on fight nights Ma Leiner would sit waiting for that ring and the glad news. "I won, Ma! I won!" And always she would query, "Never mind who won. Bist goveren beshadick." Are you hurt? Are you hurt?"

Tonight in that apartment in New York Ma Leonard once more will be waiting at the telephone. Waiting until after tonight's bout at the Arena between Benny Leonard and Vittorio Livan. Will Benny Leonard, retired lightweight champion of the world, once again be able to answer the same old way?

I won, Ma! I won again! No, I'm not hurt, Ma. Why he didn't even muss my hair!

Curbstone Too Big a Hurdle for Veteran Husky Harrier

Charles Greenleaf, Northeastern cross-country captain, who has gone through three arduous campaigns unscathed, tripped over a Huntington ave. curbstone and may be out of Saturday's meet with Bates at Lewiston.

The accident happened while Greenleaf was delivering the late afternoon mail at Northeastern.

Greenleaf was the first harrier home in the victory over Tufts, repeating his win of last year against the Jumbos, while the Natick hill and daler also was the first Husky across the finish line in the New Hampshire meet.

He holds the college two-mile record and is the Eastern intercollegiate indoor two-mile champion. His loss will deprive the Huskies of their best harrier since Russ Jellison's days.

Johnston Here After Bout for Brouillard

By GEORGE UNDERWOOD

[illegible]

Boxing is on the upward swing, declared Johnston this morning. "The depression is over and the pendulum is swinging back. The recent Brouillard-Thompson match here in Boston is a straw which showed the way the wind is blowing. The swing back to normalcy will be slow, but by next summer I believe the game will be well on its way back to par.

Johnston to Confer With Jack Sharkey

While I am here I expect to confer with Sharkey and Johnny Buckley and try to arrive at something definite on Sharkey. If he will box this winter I am willing to match him against Dempsey or Tommy Loughran. I also would like to arrange several bouts for his protege, Ernie Schaaf, whom I consider the greatest of the younger fighters. A couple of years from now that blond slugger from Wrentham will be fighting for the world's championship as sure as you're born.

I may take a tough match between Benny Leonard and Vittorio Livan at the Arena. If the former lightweight champion can deliver the goods there are lots of matches awaiting him in New York. The New York fans were greatly disappointed over the recent Leonard-Silvers bout, but Benny can rehabilitate himself with a few victories over good men.

While I am here I am going to talk with Jack Kearns over a bout for Mickey Walker. I may put him on with Tommy Loughran or someone or other. Talk of a Schmeling-Walker bout is poppycock. I am not going to let anyone shove that match down my throat. Jack Sharkey is Schmeling's logical opponent and the Boston man will get that match. Also one with Jack Dempsey or Tommy Loughran if he wants it."

Death Is Unseen Player in Every Contest

By BILL CORUM

We wondered as we saw Dick Sheridan ca[illegible] Yale Bowl Saturday if the game wa[illegible] There was no mistaking the look on the bo[illegible] face. It was the [illegible] of one who has been grievously if not fatally hurt.

A minute, two minutes before th[illegible] been [illegible] alert and filled with furious energy, a flying figure in a [illegible] gold and gray striped jersey [illegible] at the head of the pack. Now he lay on a stretcher [illegible] face showing above his army blanket [illegible] spectators watched him borne away.

Here in the midst of light and laughter [illegible] soft Autumn [illegible] was the [illegible] all.

He [illegible] a[illegible] one [illegible] picked out at its beginning [illegible] of a game. [illegible] not need to be told that Cadet Richard Sheridan [illegible] a fine boy. [illegible] He has a sensitive face [illegible] the truth [illegible]

But the West Point people [illegible] He [illegible] honor student. He has won [illegible] place [illegible] examination. He was a born [illegible] in the classroom and on the playing field. His presence in this game [illegible] to that. A second year man, he had fought his way past other heavier rivals to make the team. The programme [illegible] four pounds more than Albie Booth. In [illegible] Army and Yale, he was the [illegible] Booth weighed 145. He weighed 149.

SHERIDAN SEEMED IN EVERY PLAY

There were three reasons why the writer remembered Sheridan particularly. While he stayed in the game against Harvard at West Point a week ago, he seemed to be in every play. So I looked him up and noted that he came from Ty Cobb's town down [illegible] Georgia, which was interesting.

And later on, when he picked up a ball that [illegible] and ran for a touchdown I [illegible] but one which pleased me, about Sheridan not being twenty miles a[illegible] this time.

So for no reason, except that you instinctively pick out certain players to follow more closely than the rest, I was watching Sheridan Saturday, and he was playing like his Yankee namesake rode from Winchester—hell for leather.

On the Army kick off following Parker's [illegible] run for Yale's touchdown he was the first man down the field [illegible] Lassiter took the ball on the bound and almost before he [illegible] in his arms Sheridan was closing on him. The ball [illegible] toward his own left, then swung suddenly [illegible] and it seemed to me that [illegible] Sheridan [illegible] to turn with him that he was struck and went down [illegible] of two or three players. Certainly he did not make the [illegible]

Of all those on the field I believe the injured lad was moving [illegible] when the tragic play took place. I go into this detail to prove, probably unnecessarily, that here was a play in which there was no unnecessary roughness. Sheridan hit harder than he was [illegible]

DEATH SHOULDN'T KILL GAME

Not so long ago a banker and grand gentleman of our town was killed in an airplane accident. About the same time the will of one of the nation's richest men was settled. He died on the tennis court. Within the month there was a story in the papers about a man who was struck in the temple by a golf ball and killed. Football's most famous coach died in a plane crash last Spring.

Ray Chapman lost his life when he was struck by a pitched ball in a baseball game in the Yankee Stadium. Not so long back a famous sportsman fell dead from his horse in a polo match. The captain of the Yale baseball nine lost an arm this Summer in a motorboat accident. Rarely does a boxing season pass without at least one fatality in the ring.

The list is endless. Yet there is no hue or cry raised for the abolishment of these sports, and I do not think one is justified when a fatality occurs on the gridiron. After due thought, in other words, it seems to me that the game IS worth the candle. It makes more men than it destroys. Isn't that, in the final analysis, the test of its value?

CHESTER WINS NEW BUSINESS

[illegible]

General Foods has developed and placed on the market a number of new products which give indications of a successful future. Twenty research laboratories are at work improving production methods, the quality of all, bringing out new ideas.

There is no question that the present period is doing and will continue to do a great deal of good in strengthening organization, personnel, equipment, plans and policies.

General Foods Corp. throughout the period of business recession has been vigorous in promotion of sales and it plans to be aggressive in the future. Sales methods and personnel have been decidedly improved upon during the last two years and much effort will be expended in training personnel to greater effectiveness.

EARLY LOSSES ARE REDUCED IN WALL ST.

New York, Oct. 27—Stocks rallied in Wall St. after a sluggish decline today, reducing or cancelling early losses, but late selling made the closing tone rather heavy.

Rails were the weakest group, although their losses were not substantial.

Illinois Central, which passed the common dividend, got back half of a 5-point drop and Union Pacific halved a 6-point loss.

RAILS REDUCE LOSSES.

Atchison, which was off 4½, recovered much of the decline. United States Steel, down more than a point at the lowest, firmed as the time for the dividend meeting drew near. Net losses of a point or two in industrials and utilities were numerous. Sales were less than 1,500,000 shares.

Illinois Central's dividend omission, while expected, had an adverse influence on sentiment and traders were wary of the buying side of the market pending the quarterly statement and dividend announcement of the U. S. Steel Corp. held until after the close of the market.

News from Washington that the administration had completed its study of railroad securities, but would hold action in abeyance until the executives decide what they will do with the interstate commerce commission's proposals, was received with mixed sentiments.

Banking circles particularly interested in railroad financing, however, were inclined to feel that an eventual agreement between the executives and the commission would be reached.

HOPE FOR U. S. LOANS

Information is lacking, but it is hoped that the government may offer loans, in addition to those from the suggested pool of increased revenues, to aid weaker carriers in meeting their bond interest and maturities.

Illinois Central's dividend omission takes that stock off a dividend basis for the first time since before the Civil War. The stock had paid at least $4 a share in every year since 1860. The last quarterly dividend was $1. Barring two early omissions, the road had paid dividends in every year since organization in 1852.

While public utility dividends have been maintained better than industrial or rail payments, Commonwealth & Southern announced a six months' payment of 15 cents, against 10 cents quarterly heretofore.

Wall Street generally thinks U. S. Steel's outlook for the current quarter, what with the reduction in wages and indications of quickening activity in the automobile industry, it to be regarded as a little brighter.

Weekly condition statement of weekly reporting Federal Reserve member banks provided further indications of the strengthening of the general financial structure. Loans on securities dropped $95,000,000, at last going below the $6,000,000,000 mark. Some bankers have felt that this level should represent about the limit of deflation of loans against securities.

Furthermore, the statement showed that banks had allowed their "cash in vault" to decrease by $13,000,000. A reduction in their hoard was regarded as reflecting a conviction that depositor confidence was returning.

WHEAT PRICES AT NEW TOPS

Chicago, Oct. 27 (AP) Stirred by reports that France had about accomplished negotiations for the purchase of 20,000 bushels of United States Government sponsored wheat, the market late today outdid the season's high price record.

It was further reported that France would need to import 30,000,000 to 70,000,000 bushels of wheat before August next. The news caught the wheat pit almost bare of offerings, and the market jumped rapidly.

Wheat closed strong, 2¼-2⅝ cents higher, corn 1-1½ up, oats ⅛-⅜ advance.

Direction of Trade to Come Is Forecast

New York, Oct. 27—The most important and profitable overseas trade of the next year or two will be across the Pacific in the far East, and southward to the Latin American countries, rather than with Europe, according to O. K. Davis, secretary of the National Foreign Trade Council.

This important trade body, embracing the leaders of American import and export trade, sees ample room for encouragement in the moderate upturn in exportations to the foreign markets since June. The curve of declining foreign commerce has "flattened out" and by all tokens an upswing is now in the making, said Mr. Davis, in an exclusive interview here today with the International News Service.

SEES ENCOURAGING UPTURN

"For the first five months of the year," said Mr. Davis, "the Department of Commerce figures show a drop of 11 points in the volume of overseas business of 550 commodities. Then the curve flattened out, and in the last three months there has been a small but encouraging upturn."

Mr. Davis pointed out that, while European economic and industrial conditions continue in their extremely unsettled state, it would be more advantageous to cultivate the trade of those nations which have maintained fairly steady business relationships with us through the depression period.

U. S. LOSS IS DECREASED

The far East trade, he said, had "held up" better than that of any other part of the world. Instability of commodity prices is the greatest handicap to the resumption of European trade, and this will hardly be remedied until the British pound has been stabilized at some point either close to or remote from the old valuation, he believes.

While last year the United States lost twice as much in percentages as the other exporting nations, this year the loss has been only about one and one-half as great. The reason is that as conditions improve our foreign customers give less consideration to prices, and more to quality, preference, etc.

The swing to American goods, therefore, no matter how slight, is clearly indicative of a gain in the purchasing power of our foreign customers, and that is worth a great deal in estimating business prospects of the nearby future.

In normal times, said Davis, the United States maintains an enormous business in the so-called specialties which cannot be duplicated by the craftsmen of the competing nations.

Americans living in foreign lands naturally give preference to these articles, which range all the way from a farm tractor to a music box. So important is this trade that its volume can easily be taken as a barometer of conditions in the foreign markets.

ADVICE TO INVESTORS IS FREE

Before you buy or sell stocks or bonds, you ought to secure unbiased expert advice. Send your investment inquiries with stamp to Frank H. Meloon, Financial Editor, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop Sq., Boston. All replies are made by mail direct.

BUY BONDS

P. R., Medford—My age is 62 and I have no dependents. I own some American Telephone and Telegraph and have $4000 in a savings bank which I want to invest. What is your opinion of Standard Brands?

Ans.—Standard Brands as yet has no wide margin of earnings beyond dividends. Earnings for first half of current year were 63 cents a share, against dividend requirements of 60 cents. Net for 1930 was $1.22 a share. Current annual $1.20 rate, inaugurated January 2, 1931, is a reduction from $1.50 paid from October 1, 1929. We think you ought to retain $2000 in the savings bank and buy bonds with the rest. Would you care for suggestions?

BUY BONDS

S. J., Boston—I am 78, incapacitated physically, with one dependent. I have $11,000 in savings banks at 3½ and 4 per cent and want to invest $8000. I feel that I am too old to take any chances with my money.

Ans.—We concur and think that, in your circumstances, you ought to buy bonds. You can get $2000 each Lawyers' Title & Guarantee 5s and Prudence Company 5½s. These bonds will bring $210 annually. You can add $1000 each American Smelling & Refining first sinking fund "A" 5s, 1947; Bangor & Aroostook Railroad first 5s, 1943; Bethlehem Steel first lien and refunding "A" 5s, 1942, and Columbia Gas & Electric debenture 5s, 1952. These issues, listed on the New York Stock Exchange, yield from 5 to 5.7 per cent at maturity.

NEED FACTS

D. R., Waverley—Your advice to others interests me. Would you approve a purchase of Borden at prevailing prices?

Ans.—To know what you should buy we need a few facts about your circumstances, such as the amount you want to spend and the securities, if any, you already own. Borden Company has paid dividends, with extras, from 1901. The regular annual rate now is $3 a share. Net for 1930 was $5.12 a share. On basis of gross business so far this year, an official recently said earnings would be somewhat below 1930.

HAS $1000

Mrs. J. R., Watertown—This is the first time I have given any thought to buying securities. I am appealing to you to steer me in the right direction, as it was difficult for me to save the $1000 now available.

Ans.—It looks as though $1000 is all the cash you have. In that event the proper place for the money is in the savings bank. Defer the purchase of securities until you have $3000. If you have set aside a liberal reserve for an emergency fund, let us know about it. We can then suggest a good bond.

LARGEST NEW ENGLAND
EVENING CIRCULATION

A LETTER FROM THE GOVERNOR OF MASSACHUSETTS

How a Great Newspaper Meets Its Opportunities to Serve the People

THE BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN PUBLISHES in an adjoining column today a letter from Governor Joseph B. Ely. This letter tells its own story.

The momentous past twelve months have been notable in the 27-year history of the Evening American. This newspaper has in this period led and won through in more campaigns for the public welfare than in any like period in its existence. The success it has met in these efforts is a striking testimonial to the influence of this newspaper and to the soundness of its suggestions.

In addition to fulfilling the first duty of a successful newspaper, that of publishing all the news, accurately and without prejudice, without fear and without favor, briefly and entertainingly, the Evening American has sought ceaselessly to defend the public in its rights. It has sought to expose and correct evils which threaten these rights. It has sought to inaugurate policies and programs looking to the lifting of injustice, hunger and suffering from the poor and unfortunate.

Governor Ely, able and courageous, is naturally vitally interested in the well-being of his State and of his fellow-citizens. First, because he is a good citizen. Second, because he, as Governor, faces a heavy responsibility in the maximum use of his high office as the State's chief executive for the promotion of the interests of the people.

So he stands as truly representative of every good citizen of the State when he says in his letter to the editor of the Evening American:

> "I want you to know that my daily reading of the Boston Evening American is a source of stimulation to me because nowhere do I find the paramount interests of the people of Massachusetts more genuinely advocated."

* * *

The Boston Evening American is a New England institution, dedicated to the interest of the people of New England.

And it is deeply devoted in the large sense to the safety of America, to its future and to the problems which confront New Englanders as citizens of the United States.

The people of New England know this.

Here they have seen Mr. William Randolph Hearst's proposal that the National Government issue a five-billion-dollars Prosperity Loan, in order that citizens may have work, not a dole, in order that business may be stimulated, in order that the resources of the country shall be developed to accommodate the requirements of an increasing population.

Here they have seen his vigorous American policies, based upon the principle that the United States shall be loyal to the traditions of its founders and shall not intermeddle in the hatreds, rivalries and conspiracies of other nations and foreign peoples.

Here they have seen the patriotic demand that foreign nations repay the thirteen thousand million dollars they owe this country.

Here they have seen the patriotic demands that America shall have an actual Navy, not a paper one, that shall keep us out of war but that will be adequate to defend us.

Here they have seen the sensible demand that prohibition, with its notorious evils of graft, corruption, cowardice and drunkenness, shall be supplanted by a system that shall substitute temperance and respect for law.

Here they have seen the demands that labor shall not be "deflated" by cruel, unjust wage slashes but shall enjoy the benefits of modern machinery by a six-hour day.

The Boston Evening American was the first newspaper in America to create the "Buy Now" and "Give A Job" movements, which provided jobs for thousands.

The Boston Evening American originated and advocated the program of public works. As a consequence more than $10,000,000 was provided by the State of Massachusetts. Governor Ely estimates that 25,000 men have been put to useful, constructive work.

The Boston Evening American advocated and secured appropriations in excess of $1,000,000 for the abandonment of the horrible Charlestown State Prison and for the construction of the model Norfolk Prison Colony.

Among the many other campaigns of the Evening American may be listed:

THE EAST BOSTON STRANDWAY and Marine Park development, planned that health and recreational facilities might be afforded to a section of the city whose 75,000 people had long been ignored in their rights.

THE PROSECUTION and sending to prison of the notorious Oliver B. Garrett when officials and public alike feared he was too powerful to be caught; "it couldn't be done." The elimination of the evil influences which had brought a saturnalia of graft and vice into the Boston Police Department and impaired its usefulness to the people followed. An inefficient police commissioner was forced out of office, and a complete shakeup of the department resulted as a matter of course.

EXPOSED AND CONDEMNED the unjust, inequitable automobile insurance rates and organized the public protest which culminated in the special session of the Legislature, now meeting to prevent the increases.

OLD-AGE ASSISTANCE, resulting in the passage of the new law intended to afford decent assistance to our old men and women.

EXPOSED MANY BOSTON FIRE TRAPS, called schoolhouses, with their wooden fire escapes and antiquated sanitation and caused the city of Boston to embark upon the schoolhouse construction program in order that children may obtain education without hazard to life and health.

EXPOSED AND CONDEMNED the scheme of the Pennsylvania Railroad to secure a strangle-hold upon the fine old New England railroads, the Boston and Maine and the New Haven—a scheme subsequently denounced by Governor Ely, Interstate Commerce Commissioner Joseph B. Eastman and by the Governors' Committee of the New England States.

EXPOSED THE SCHEME to abolish the Charlestown Navy Yard months before admission of that scheme by Washington, and organized the public spirit of protest.

ATTACKED THE LONG, interminable and inexcusable delay in the construction of the Boston Post Office, with the result that specifications were issued for it in forty-eight hours. Led the campaign for New England granite.

ATTACKED THE SCHEME to locate the huge oil-tank farm in the home, church and school section of East Boston, for which the people of East Boston acknowledged thanks in resolutions in mass meetings.

EXPOSED THE BUCKET-SHOP SWINDLERS—mulcting the people of Massachusetts of more than $50,000,000 annually—which enabled Attorney-General Warner to obtain fifty indictments.

EXPOSED THE FAILURE of the State to enforce the Minimum Wage Laws, for benefit of women and children in industry, and thus aided in securing the investigation now being made by a special commission.

UNITED WITH THE CITY of Boston to develop here the greatest airport in the world and secured from Chairman James of the Military Affairs Committee of the House of Representatives the definite promise that legislation permitting the acquisition of Governor's Island for this purpose would be expedited by Congress.

ADVOCATED CONSTRUCTION of the East Boston Tunnel.

DEMANDED construction of the Southern Artery and elimination of the serious traffic congestion at Governor Square, which is being done.

EXPOSED THE IMMIGRATION and naturalization scandals at the United States Courthouse where swindlers were preying upon the gullibility of new American citizens and prompted the successful investigation made by the United States Attorney.

ADVOCATED THE GUARANTEE of a minimum wage to the Lawrence Mill Workers, a principle which the 25,000 operatives have accepted as a basis for negotiations.

PROTESTED THE IMPOSITION of the fifty-cent service charge by the gas company in Charlestown and Somerville.

PROPOSED A DEFINITE program for development and expansion of the Port of Boston which won expressions of commendation from the Chamber of Commerce and industrial, commercial and shipping interests.

ADVOCATED CONSTRUCTION of modern hangars at the Boston Airport to replace the antique, unsuitable hangars maintained there by the State. This is being done.

ORGANIZED AND PROMOTED, for the benefit of the Christmas Basket Fund, the greatest wrestling carnival in the history of this country, attended by more than 35,000.

Distributed Christmas baskets, each containing a fresh New England turkey and a week's supply of other food, to more than 3000 families.

ADVOCATED AND ENCOURAGED development of Revere Beach, that the 500,000 people who assemble there on hot days may have something better than the facilities created to accommodate 40,000.

ORGANIZED THE SENTIMENT which procured the defeat by the Legislature of the scheme to impair the direct primaries and thus to deprive the people of their right to nominate and elect public officials.

URGED THE IMMEDIATE payment of the soldiers' bonus and provided thousands of application blanks.

BY CONSTRUCTIVE PUBLICITY, acting in co-operation with Governor Ely and State Treasurer Hurley, stopped foolish and dangerous runs on suburban banks. For this effort the Boston Evening American was thanked by bank and state officials.

* * *

In view of such programs and of such policies, it is not surprising that the President of the Massachusetts State Branch American Federation of Labor and the President of the Boston Central Labor Union said in public speeches that Mr. William Randolph Hearst and his newspapers have alone proposed sensible, constructive programs to alleviate the suffering of unemployment and to usher the return of prosperity again.

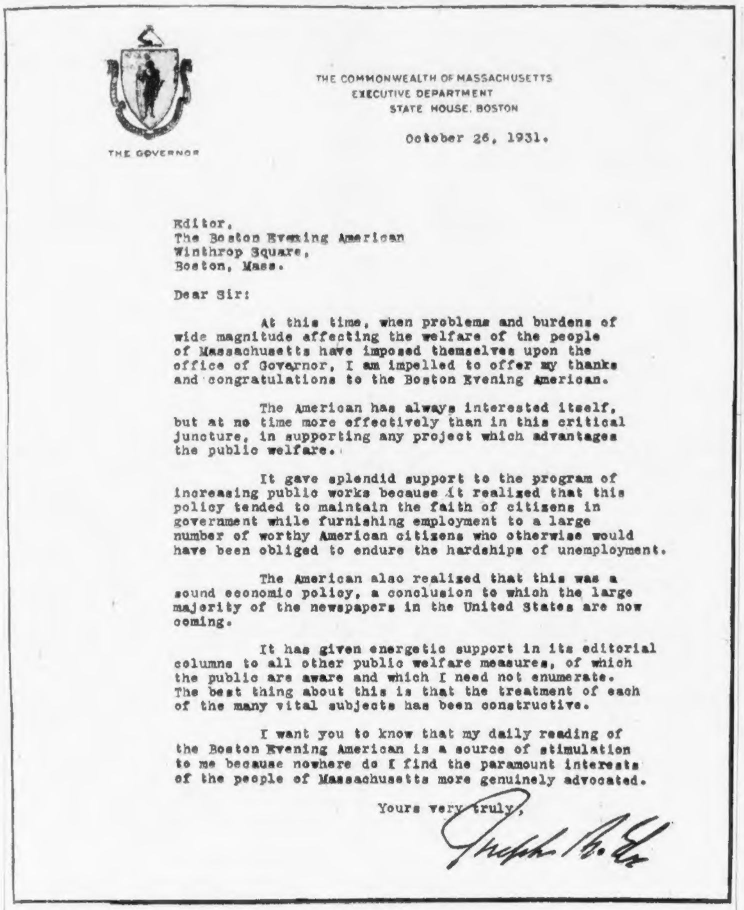
It is not surprising that Governor Allen, as the last act of his administration, urged the Mayors and Selectmen of 250 Massachusetts cities and towns to adopt for the relief of unemployment the program offered by the Boston Evening American.

It is not surprising that Mayor Curley advised the conference of college presidents, educators, scientists and economists to "follow carefully" the progressive program outlined by the Boston Evening American.

It is not surprising that the popular Governor Ely, indefatigable in his attempts to ameliorate the condition of his fellow citizens, sends this voluntary message of thanks.

It is not surprising that the Boston Evening American has by a margin of many thousands the largest evening circulation in all New England.

An increasing flood of Evening Americans flows into the homes of Greater Boston during the hours of publication, reaching its crest during the homeward rush late in the day. THE EVENING AMERICAN GOES HOME—AND STAYS HOME.



THE GOVERNOR

THE COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT
STATE HOUSE, BOSTON

October 26, 1931.

Editor,
The Boston Evening American
Winthrop Square,
Boston, Mass.

Dear Sir:

At this time, when problems and burdens of wide magnitude affecting the welfare of the people of Massachusetts have imposed themselves upon the office of Governor, I am impelled to offer my thanks and congratulations to the Boston Evening American.

The American has always interested itself, but at no time more effectively than in this critical juncture, in supporting any project which advantages the public welfare.

It gave splendid support to the program of increasing public works because it realized that this policy tended to maintain the faith of citizens in government while furnishing employment to a large number of worthy American citizens who otherwise would have been obliged to endure the hardships of unemployment.

The American also realized that this was a sound economic policy, a conclusion to which the large majority of the newspapers in the United States are now coming.

It has given energetic support in its editorial columns to all other public welfare measures, of which the public are aware and which I need not enumerate. The best thing about this is that the treatment of each of the many vital subjects has been constructive.

I want you to know that my daily reading of the Boston Evening American is a source of stimulation to me because nowhere do I find the paramount interests of the people of Massachusetts more genuinely advocated.

Yours very truly,

Joseph B. Ely
